HEALTH NOTES.

Extension Division, University of Wisconsin, Health Instruction Bureau.

HIGH LIVING COSTS.

"If the price of gasoline had not tripled in the past few years I believe that it would have been the death of me," remarked an average citizen in the course of a philosophical discussion of the high cost of living. "Like most other people, I have a natural tendency to like the soft things of life. As a consequence I had got into the way of letting a gas engine do the work that my leg and other muscles were made to do."

"It was much the same with my teeth, stomach, and intestinal tract. The best cuts of the highest priced stall fed beef cattle were naturally more appetizing than the meat that had to be chewed for a few moments before it could be swallowed. Being more appetizing, I ate far more of such food than I needed and was growing more sluggish physically and mentally than I should have been."

"Because I couldn't lower prices nor increase my earnings to keep pace with increases in costs, there was but one thing left to do and that was to consume less luxuries. I began to walk to save gasoline. With more exercise no appetite became more natural and ordinary food came to taste better and to be more satisfactory than the fancy dishes had been."

"Insurance companies and health officers have been publishing statements that diseases of the heart, arteries, and kidneys have been rapidly increasing in America and that an important factor in the cause has been too much soft living. The high cost of living may prove to be a blessing in disguise because I know that thousands of others have had a similar experience to mine. If we gain years of life, I don't suppose we can reckon the cost of the extra years as being higher than they are worth."

MARKVILLE

School District No. 5 celebrated closing day, Friday afternoon. Quite a number of people were present and everybody enjoyed it fine.

Mrs. Hardy Lechner and children, who spent a few days with relatives at Madison the past week, returned home Sunday.

The electric line was finished Saturday afternoon, and says that Mazomanie road area was some bright way in the evening. Kerosene lamps and lanterns sure must have been insulted, having lost their old places.

The Black Earth Telephone Co. has set up a new wire.

An airplane was seen here Sunday evening.

Mrs. Roy Heatter and family, Mrs. Kenneth Weel are sharing with their mother.

Mrs. Wm. Evert, who is sick.

Math Bram and family, of Springfield, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bram and family, Sunday.

Miss A. Voss, of Madison, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Voss, at present.

John Michels purchased a Durr car some time ago.

How Diphtheria is Contracted.

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.—Adv.

WHERE THE MONEY MUST COME FROM.

Telephone facilities did not keep pace with growth, during the war, because the government put strict limits on new construction. Now labor and materials are high.

During war time, if the government income from telephone service did not pay the bills, Uncle Sam went down in his pocket and made up the deficit out of taxes.

It is really much fairer for the user of the telephone, who gets the benefit, to pay what the service is worth.

Improvements must keep pace with the public's demands, and there is no way for the Telephone Company to get the money to pay for them, except by an increase of rates.

Increased facilities increase the value of the service to every subscriber.

MARNE MEMORIAL POSTER

JUST as the school children of France gave for their country's gift to the United States—the Statue of Liberty—so will American school children contribute "one cent and upward" for "America's Gift to France," a memorial statue by Frederick MacMonnies, the noted American sculptor. Mr. MacMonnies is contributing his services toward the monument which, it is estimated, will cost $250,000.

The poster shows herewith, in by Albert Steiner, noted American portrait painter. It typifies the tribute which this country will pay to the French through the Marne monument. The poster will be displayed in cities, towns, and villages, and will designate many of the places where contributions may be made during the week of March 22—a free will offering, in which numbers of contributors, rather than size of contributions, will be sought from school children and others.

How is Your Complexion?
A woman should grow more beautiful as she grows older and she will with due regard to bath, diet and exercise and by keeping her liver and bowels in good working order. If you are haggard and faded, your eyes losing their lustre and whites becoming yellowish, your flesh flabby, it may be due to indigestion or to a sluggish liver. HOW EUROPE CAN ESCAPE COLLAPSE

WE MUST AID BY EXTENDING CREDITS, SAYS DAVISON.

GRAVE MENACE TO U. S. A.

European Ruin Would Involve America—Starvation and Disease Rampant.

Des Moines, Ia.—Speaking before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, Henry H. Davison, chairman of the board of governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, said: "As chairman of the conference of Red Cross societies, composed of representatives of 27 nations that met recently in Geneva, I am conscious of authoritative reports regarding appalling conditions among millions of people living in eastern Europe."

"One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race is being enacted within the broad of territory lying between the Baltic and the Black and Adriatic seas."

"This area includes the new Baltic states—Holland, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Montenegro, Albania and Serbia."

"The reports which come to us make it clear that in these war-ravaged lands civilization has broken down. Disease, bereavement and suffering are present in practically every household, while food and clothing are insufficient to make life tolerable."

"Men, women and children are dying by thousands, and over vast once civilized areas there are to be found neither medicinal appliances nor medical skill sufficient to cope with the devastating plague."

"Whole-sale starvation is threatened in Poland this summer unless she can procure food supplies in large quantities. There are now approximately 250,000 cases of typhus in Holland and in the area occupied by Polish troops."

"This is already one of the worst typhus epidemics in the world's history. In Galicia whole towns are crippled and business suspended. In some districts there is but one doctor to each 150,000 people."

"In the Ukraine, we are told, typhus and influenza have affected most of the people."

"A report from Vienna, dated Feb. 22, states: 'Where are the nations for whom the nations of Vienna and takes upon us.'"

"Budgeting, according to our information, is one vast city of misery and suffering, and the number of deaths is double that of births. Of the 150,000 children in the schools, 100,000 are dependent on public charity. There are 15,000 workers idle."

"Typhus and smallpox have invaded the four countries composing Czechoslovakia, and there is a vast quantity of medicine, soap and disinfectants."

"In Serbia typhus has broken out again and there are but 200 physicians to minister to the needs of the entire country."

"In Montenegro, where food is running short, there are but 100 physicians for a population of 450,000."

"Returning to the United States a few weeks ago, I found myself once more in a land where granaries were overflowing, where health and plenty abounded and where life and activities and eager enterprise were in the full flood."

"I asked myself, 'What if this plague and famine were here and the great territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi valley, which roughly parallels the extent of these ravaged countries, and that 65,000,000 of our people, condemned to blindness by lack of raw material and whose fields had been devastated by invasion and rapidly were racked by starvation, and if we had lifted up our voice and invoked the attention of our brothers in happier Europe to our own dear millions and our cries had rights on our own side, would we not drop our despair against their heartlessness?'"

"There are only three ways by which these stricken lands can secure supplies from the outside world. One is by payment, one by credit, and the third is by exchange of commodities. If these peoples tried to buy materials and supplies in America at the present market value of their exports, Austria would have to pay forty times the original cost, Germany thirteen times, Greece just double, Czechoslovakia fourteen and Poland fifty times."

"It is clear, therefore, that they cannot do as we do for the things they must have, nor have they either products or sources to offer in return for credit. If only they could obtain raw material which these idle millions of their could convert into manufactured products, they would have something to trade the world in return for its raw material, food and medicine. But if they have neither money nor credit, how are they to take this first great step towards redemption?"

"One-half the world may not eat while the other half starves. How long do you believe the plague and typhus that is taking a hideous death toll in Estonia and Poland and the Ukraine, and eating along the fringe of Germany and Czechoslovakia, will continue itself to stampede lands?"

"Only last Saturday our health commissioners of New York Dr. Copeland, said for the other side just to measure the danger and take precautions against such an invasion."

"This is one menace at our three-fold, the other more threatening, more terrible—the menace of the world's ill will. We can afford to die, but to be despised forever as a greedy and Pharisaical nation is a fate that we must not incur."

"The French government has many serious problems to solve, but the French peasantry is working, and the French aristocracy still builds in need of raw materials, has not lost the habit of industry and thrift."

"France today is that her people are alive to the seriousness of France's problem and they are going forward bravely to solve that problem."

"Italy, despite her great shortage of raw material, is looking forward and not backward. Italy can be relied upon to do her part."

"England is meeting the problems of reconstruction just as those who knew her past should have expected her to meet them."

"It is not for me, perhaps, to give in detail a formula for solution of the world's ills, but as I have been asked many times, 'What would you do?' I am glad to give my own answer. Accordingly, I would ask:

"1. That congress immediately pass a bill appropriating a sum not to exceed $100,000,000 for the use of central and eastern Europe."

"2. That congress call upon the president to appoint a nonpolitical commission of three Americans distinguished for their character and executive ability and commanding the respect of the American people. Such a commission should include men of the type of Gen. Pershing, Mr. Hoover or Mr. Secretary Lane. I would invest that commission with complete power."

"3. I would have the commission instructed to proceed at once, accompanied by proper personnel, to survey conditions in central and eastern Europe and then act for the restoration of those countries under such conditions upon such terms as the commission itself may decide to be practical and effective. Among the conditions should be provided that there should be no local interference with the free and untrammelled exercise by the commission of its own prerogative of allocating materials."

"Governmental politics should be eliminated; unreasonable and prejudicial barriers between the various countries should be removed, and such substantial guarantees as may be required should be given to ensure that the conditions imposed should be fulfilled."

"4. As to financial terms, I should make them liberal. I would charge no interest for the first three years; for the country were not approximating normal or if its exchange conditions were so adverse as to make payment unduly burdensome. I should make the maturity of the obligation 15 years from its date, and I should have no doubt as to its final payment."

"5. Immediately the plan was adopted, I should ask that the League of other governments be in a position to assist to participate in the undertaking."

"6. To set forth completely my opinion, I should have the League of Instructions the American people, through their government, should say to the world, 'We are undertaking and do this job in such a manner as, after study, you think it should be undertaken. This is our undertaking. The American people trust you to see that it is done right.'"

"I would also say to the commission: 'Use as much of this money as is needed.' Personally I am confident that with the assistance and cooperation which would come from other parts of the world, the sum of $100,000,000 from the United States would be more than enough to start these countries on the way to normal conditions and the restoration of normal conditions."

"The whole plan, of course, involves many practical considerations, the most serious of which is that of obtaining the money, whether by issuing additional Liberty bonds, an increase in the floating debt or by taxation. But I think we could properly say to the treasury department: 'We know how serious your financial problems are, we know the difficulties which are immediately confronting you, we know the importance of deduction, and we know that the government must economize and that individuals must economize, but we also know that the American government advanced $100,000,000 to its allies to attain victory and peace. Certainly it is not making the additional advance in order to realize the peace for which we have already struggled, for nothing is more certain than that until normal conditions are restored in Europe, there can be no peace.'"

"Above all things, I would say that whatever action is taken, should be taken immediately. The crisis is so acute that the situation does not admit of delay, except with the possibility of consequences one hardly dares contemplate."

"The situation that I have spread out here is far beyond the scope of individual charity. Only by the action of governments, our own and the others whose resources enable them to cooperate, can aid be given in sufficient volume. I am also confident that our action would be followed by the government of Great Britain, of Holland, of the Scandinavian countries, of Spain and Japan, and that France and Belgium and Italy, notwithstanding all of their losses, would help to the best of their ability."

"The Great Thing About Real Tobacco" says the Good Judge

Is that it tastes so good, and a little chew lasts so much longer than the old kind.

The good, rich tobacco taste stays right with this class of tobacco. That's why it costs you less to chew it.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.
