I Have Done My Best

BY O. LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

If I can say that I have done my best today—
Have made the most of opportunity,
If I have acted always in a manly way
And met those problems life presented me,
To me belongs tonight the victor's right to know
A certain satisfaction and contentment.
I do believe that I have done my best, and so
I view with pride today's accomplishment!

But let me not forget that what today was good
Will never meet the test tomorrow gives.
Perhaps today I did the very best I could,
But great success is won by him who lives
In constant striving toward a higher, better goal;
And so I pray that every morning sun
Will stimulate a new ambition in my soul.

Until I do the best that can be done!

Louis Lashway, Victor Weinstock, David Swearingen and Delbert Jones went to the Older Boys Conference Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Wright was delegate leader.

The Main high school team was defeated by the Spring Green team last Friday by a score of 25 to 16. The Main team led up to the fourth quarter. This game was one of the best games played in our gym. Our boys surely lost a hard fought battle.

Two debate teams have been appointed in the high school. The subject for debate is The Child Labor Amendment. James Murphy is captain of the affirmative and Louis Lashway captain of the negative.

The speakers for the affirmative are Delbert Jones, Burton Swan and James Murphy; the negative are Charles Jones, Frank Carter and Louis Lashway.

STATE INCOME TAX SUGGESTIONS

Every person who is a state income tax return is mailed most returns the form completely filled out.

All persons who have a taxable income make a return whether a blank was mailed to them or not. Section 7100, 101, 102, of the Law reads:

"Any person who receives a taxable income during the year must report the same, whether satisfied to do so or not, and shall be subject to the same penalties for failure to report as those who receive notice."

In addition, executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, and partners shall make returns to the Assessor of Taxes.

The personal exemptions under the State Tax Law are for a single person, $1000; for a husband and wife, $1500; for dependents.

The chief deductions allowed are interest paid and ordinary business expenses. Interest, however, is not allowable if paid on an indebtedness created for acquire property unless the income from such property has been rapidly developing. Accord-taxable. In the same way business expenses may be deducted but can only be deducted when incurred in producing the income which is taxed. All expenses must be accurately and carefully itemized.

Taxes are allowed only on income produced by business. Taxes on vacant property, on a person's home or automobile and taxes on any property outside of the state are not allowable as a deduction. On rented property, the ordinary repairs are allowable as a deduction. Anything in the nature of a replacement or which adds materially to the value of the property is considered as an investment and cannot be taken as an expense.

All teachers, County, State, City and local employees are subject to the Wisconsin Income Tax Law and will make returns. The amount paid into the state retirement fund by teachers should be included as income as this is not an expense but an investment.

Returns must be in by the 15th of March. The office of the assessor of incomes is open from 8:30 until 12:30 and from 1:30 until 5:00. The form is always ready.

Before asking for advice, taxpayers are asked to go over the return carefully themselves and fill out as much as possible. The office of the assessor of incomes also cannot at this period of the year take the time to do the simple mathematical work such as adding together interest or dividing items. When help is required, it is required that a person furnish information, have the model of the tax law and also have his data in such shape that answers can readily be made on the return.

We urge you to put on your return, the town, village, or city of which you are a resident.

FORD PRICE REDUCTION

Probably the biggest piece of automobile news in the Ford Motor Company's history is the reduction of a reduction of the entire line of Ford closed cars.

The new price level is sacrificed, to the trend of closed car buying which is now rapidly developing. According to a statement by the company accompanying the announcement, this trend has reached such a high point that manufacturing economies have been effected and, in accordance with the established policy of the company, the benefits of these economies are passed on to purchasers of Ford cars.

Closing virtually on the heels of the sweeping improvements and reductions made in front cars last fall, these price marks the climax of a period of general ascending values. Less than six months ago Ford bodies were completely redesigned to make possible a greater degree of beauty, driving ease and riding comfort. In line with this development all-new bodies were introduced together with closed cars in color and numerous refinements in the chassis.

These improvements, which are the most pronounced ever made in Ford cars, are now accompanied by the lowest prices at which Ford ever sold.

The reductions range from $95 off the cost of the Tudor to $30 off the price of the Coupe. The Tudor, most popular family car of the Ford line is reduced 80¢.

"Enclosed Car" Motor

Introduced at New York Show

Our showrooms are now devoted to a Special Nash Exhibit that practically duplicates the great New York Show display.

Here you may view personally the important new Nash developments—particularly the great new Nash "Enclosed Car" Motor.

In creating this new motor Nash deliberately disregarded general precedent which was accustomed to shape the capabilities of a motor to open car requirements.

On the contrary, Nash especially engineered this motor to provide the finest calibre of performance for the enclosed car.

In utter smoothness, in quietness and in phenomenal acceleration, this new "Enclosed Car" Motor clearly outdistances all that has gone before.

WOMEN ARE HELPING MUCH TO WRITE WISCONSIN HISTORY

By Mrs. A. H. Shewmaker, president, Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs.

If the annals of Wisconsin should be quite full of women, most people would be surprised at the large part which women's organizations have played in making that history.

The Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs is only one of many women's organizations—but it has been in operation longer than most of them and has been carried on by successive lines of work for the past twenty-five years. The federation was organized in 1903 by Mrs. Clara Morris, of Berlin, who was the first president. It did much work in connection with the early days of the federation. Mrs. Morris is still very active in club-work and during last May was Wisconsin's representative to the International Council of Women which met in Washington.

While the federation of Women's Clubs was originally founded as a cultural organization, it has broadened its work until at the present time there is scarcely a subject that isn't touched at some point by the work of women.

About fifteen years ago Wisconsin Club Women began to broaden their work and took up many lines of civic activities, actually doing the physical work of clearing up their cities and towns, and at this time they entered into a new era of growth and interest in the field of work. Many women who had viewed with rather dim eyes the club work of women in their studies of Shakespeare and Browning, admitted that "at something worthwhile." This new line of work was also very attractive to many women who, heretofore, had not joined the ranks of the club workers.

Wisconsin is truly a rural state and of late years the club influence has been extended into nearly all the rural communities, where the most excellent work is being done. At the present time out of forty-nine counties in Wisconsin, sixty-eight of these counties have a regular club organization with full quota of officers, and following in this respect the example of the state federation, the convention of the national delegation of women clubs.

We learn the names and extent of this work. It is only necessary to look over the reports of work done, to know the results of work done, to know the women in their own communities.

There you will see that the women are establishing and maintaining health, taking active interest in their public schools; arranging and advertising for hot lunches in rural schools; and for milk lunches in town.

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Stephen Hopkins, Rhode Island

Many a man's place in history is Brown University. He was bred a farmer, but served as captain of Rhode Island for a number of terms. He did not find military life congenial to him, so he left the farm to go into mercantile business and succeeded, the first step in a career which was to lead him into Colonial prominence.

Brown advanced in years during the stirring times of 1775-76, he was able to give to affairs of the Colonies the accumulated wisdom of a man who has passed through strenuous political history. He was a clear and convincing speaker, and used his influence in favor of decisive measures. He was a member of the Rhode Island Convention, in aid recently deceased, which drafted the Articles of Confederation.

"Sir, your hand trembles," chided a legislator, as Hopkins, with unsteady hand, took up the pen to sign the Declaration.

"True, sir, but my heart does not," was the reply.

He was nearly seventy years of age, but his answer did not impress the physical disability. His heart was uncontrollable in spite of strong efforts evidenced in the accounts of his life. He was self-taught, but in time came to be Chancellor of and city schools. They are planting thousands of trees and caring for these; establishing clinics for free examinations of children; aiding in hospital work besides doing their natural part in all lesser undertakings in behalf of modern life.

One woman is laying great claim to a good citizenship which they think if carried out, will exceed some of the civic in town, and city government. They are making a study of their local government, and are trying to become acquainted with the officials in that government, in order that they may better understand the difficulties and problems which these officials must meet each year. In their clubs they are studying the history of art, literature and history, in all its different phases, and the work is now so diversified that every woman finds something of interest there. Club life is truly democratic, and the doors of the clubs are open to all women who wish to enter.

A mark to this space indicates that your subscription to the Sickles has increased. Your contributions for renewal will be greatly appreciated, and will insure continued delivery. The Sickles is popular in value, at $2.00 per year.
