5 DAYS instead of 5 weeks

A traveling dry goods salesman for a Milwaukee house suddenly had to cancel his regular trip because of a broken leg. In the emergency he decided to try Long Distance. From his sick-room he covered in five days by telephone the same territory that normally required five to six weeks of traveling. And he gathered in by Long Distance 50 per cent of his usual business!

Has your house and have you personally thought of the many hours and dollars the telephone can save your business? Have you learned the use of long distance calls in conducting your sales campaigns every day, just as in an emergency?

Our Commercial Department will gladly make a study of your telephone opportunities. The telephone on your desk will reach distant cities and states as surely and effectively as it connects you with the other side of the town. Make use now of any of the numerous convenient kinds of Bell Long Distance Service.

MARKVILLE

Miss Minna Lusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lusk, of Rockport, died after a long illness, May 28, 1934, and was buried Wednesday, the 29th, at Lutheran St. John's cemetery at Rockport, by Rev. E. F. Schaefer. A very large attendance from near and far came to pay the last tribute to their beloved young friend.

The play, "Miss Perkins' Last Supper," on "The Old Doctor School No. 2," given by the Y. P. U. of St. Paul, has to repeat the same next Saturday, May 29, at 8:15 sharp, at Schumann's hall in Markville, because the hall was so crowded, that no standing room could be bought and very many people had to leave without taking in the great enjoyment. Come again and enjoy yourself.

FORTY SALE

Some time before Decoration Day, some girls will call on the people of Mazomanie, and ask you to buy a jersey and wear it Sunday, May 26. They will want you to do this in memory of the soldier dead, in respect for them, and to help and cheer the wounded and sick disabled soldiers at hospitals, in which the proceeds of the sale go. It will help them wonderfully to see the people here not forgotten them.

AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Here is the big secret "special production" for the year in the making! Thousands in the past, now it can be seen! Now the secret is out, now you can see the greatest picture of the year! "The Greater Glory" is more than a picture. It's an epic. Through it runs a story of the deepest and most thrilling nature. Before the war it was the romantic career of all the world. Then came the war. With it came hunger and cold and terror of impending destruction. The story turned to tears. Noble figures were hounded in the dust and were sent from their castles. Anne of Cleves, Conway Thorne, Mar. Allen, his Keith, Jean Herschell, Lady Bunsford, Rose Flowers and many others were hounded in the dust and were sent from their castles. SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES
The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Richard Henry Lee, Signer
The famous resolution declaring the American Colonies to be "free and independent states" was introduced in the Continental Congress by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the famous document will be celebrated by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition at Philadelphia, extending from June 1 to December 1.
Lee was a leader of one of the most distinguished of the thirteen original states, a representative which gave a famous point of station to the service of the United States. He was born in Stratford, Virginia, in 1732, was educated in England, and returned to America at the age of sixteen.
In a very short time the young Virginian he was only twenty-two entered the House of Burgesses where he soon became noted for his ability as a debater and as a clear political thinker. He was among the foremost of the state in putting in motion the machinery against royal oppression. A brilliant display of eloquence characterized Lee's speech in Congress on June 7, 1776, when he offered the historic resolutions declaring: (1) that the thirteen colonies were and ought to be free and independent states; (2) that foreign alliances should be made; and (3) that general confederation be adopted.

Lee left Congress in June 1776, but was again a member of that body in 1778-80, in 1784-85 and 1786-87. In 1784 he was chosen president of Congress but retired at the end of the year. He was opposed to the national constitution because it superseded state sovereignty. However, he supported Washington's administration, and was United States senator from Virginia from 1789 to 1792. He died in Charlottesville, Virginia, in 1794.

That Men May Grow
by O. Lawrence Hawthorne
Nature never seems to grumble
Cause the weather isn't just right
You don't hear the trees complain
When the sun is out o' night.
Flowers seem to like the showers,
An' there ain't a growin' thing
That don't need the Fall an' Winter
To prepare it for the Spring.
Seems to me that men develop
Somethin' like a field o' grain
With the sunshine that life brings 'em.
Comes the darkness and the rain
Cause it takes just so much hardship
An' what seems to be tough luck
To bring out a feller's strength.
And to give 'im virtues and pluck
