WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29
—SPECIAL!—
 We are proud to present the Epic of the American Country House. The gripping screen version of GENE STRATTON-PORTER'S best known novel.
"LADDIE."
 With JOHN BOWERS, GENE STRATTON, BESS FLOWERS, and DAVID TORRENCE.

There must be something wrong with pictures nowadays, when the sight of a little child leaning against a farmyard fence, in prayer, can reach out from the shadows and land you a wallop that the most pretentiously constructed emotional scene by the highest skilled artists and technicians can fail to equal.
 Of one thing we are certain, "Laddie" stands out above every picture ever made, by reason of its gentleness and kindness. It takes the "covering of people's hearts and shows you a happy home inside. It's something that makes you keep exclaiming the long that won't go down. There is no picture absolutely more that can top it. We've got it. It's yours. We are proud to show it. Don't think it's a "sad" picture, for it's full of laughs, too. Hats off to Gene Stratton-Porter! "Laddie" is the person who sees her greatest achievement on the screen.
 It's going to be one of the best pictures ever shown here and it's going to break our house records, so come early if you want a seat.
 Also showing Whirlwind Comedy, "Egg On."
 Admission 15 and 20 Cents.

NEXT WEEK—FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1
"WAR PAINT."
 A "Big Time" Western. Watch for particulars.
 Comedy, "Easy Payments."

MAZOMANIE, WIS., SEPT. 24, 1928

OF LOCAL INTEREST

In speaking in the crowd of present political events, the race for State county judge will be more or less of a four-all race next April, with perhaps five or more candidates in the field. Among those whose names are being mentioned as viable candidates are Robert N. Nelson, Judge Herman W. Sauten, Ernest N. Warner, Henry T. Schuler, and Gordon Knechtel. All are Madison attorneys.

Nels Johnson entertained at a chicken dinner Sunday, the affair being a family reunion. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Asker, and daughter of Oak Park, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Thompson, of Evansville, Minn. and Mrs. L. F. Schaeffer, of Madison. Mrs. Mary Fowler, of Oak, that full, bloated friend. Removes flesh, fat, and the worst matter from intestines and bowels and daughter of Franklin, makes you feel happy and happy. Mr. and Mrs. William Edinger, of Excellent for obstinate constipation. Give A. Shields, Druggist.

STATE HAS DEMOCRATIC PARTY

The democratic ticket for state office this year, except the candidate for attorney general, is secured a place in the general election ballot in November. David Gardner, Jr., of Plattville, the candidate for attorney general, is the only democratic candidate who has failed to receive sufficient votes to place him on the ballot. With official returns shortly at hand, he has 18,000 votes, 15,000 being necessary to nominate. He is a son-in-law of W. T. Florkson, of Prairie du Chien.

Young Wife Afraid to Eat Anything

"I was afraid to eat because I always had stomach trouble after meals. Since taking Algeria's I can eat and feel fine," reports Mrs. A. Howard, ONE spoonful Algeria's removes GAS and other things from the stomach, giving relief to the stomach. Stops flatulence, that full, bloated feeling. Removes flesh, fat, and the worst matter from intestines and bowels and daughter of Franklin, makes you feel happy and happy. Mr. and Mrs. William Edinger, of Excellent for obstinate constipation. Give A. Shields, Druggist.

POLITICAL SIDELIGHTS

By O. D. Brandenberg

Madison, Wis.—Assemblyman Robert Caldwell of Iola, nominated for the senate after four terms in the lower house, will strengthen the quality of the upper branch. No man in either body is endowed with harder common sense. He has served on any of the great committees with knowledge based on practical experience on agriculture, for he was born on a farm and operates one; on banking, for he is head of a solid financial institution; on education, for he has had long connection with school matters; on taxation, insurance, highways, with all of which he has had much to do. Henry J. Bohn of Baraboo, who ran second, has a good record as district attorney, among his deeds was packing off to prison a lot of petty thieves who razed lawlessly over a territory fifty miles roundabout Baraboo for a year, stealing portable objects from chickens, hens and sheep to automobiles. Mr. Bohn lives in an old-fashioned frame house with pleasing cables—the home half a century ago of Terrill Thomas, the village banker, who lost his fortune in the big crash of 1908. A heavy red stone wall, extending along the street, was built by Bohn himself, suitable toddlers being gathered laboriously out at a time from the countryside, and patiently transplanted in town. One certainly cannot fail to cherish nightly a home so tenderly improved. Incidentally, the unfortunate banker of other days was interested in marriage with the owner of whom a notable number in Mrs. Belle Case La Follette. Bohn failed in the primary by only 97 votes.

A narrower margin was that of T. J. Bohn, Senator Theodore of Sparta, named out ahead of Clinton G. Price of Mauston. The episode could not have meant overmuch to Teasdale, but it is almost tragic for Price, who really could have been elected to the assembly, possibly thereafter to have become speaker, then to move on upward to attorney general, perhaps yet higher. Now this local progress is blocked at every step. A new attorney general goes in, also a governor, both of whose tenures are likely to extend for six years; the senate is beyond reach similarly, and even the vetoed assembly seat is promptly preempted by another. Mr. Price is unlucky. A few years ago he all but achieved a seat on the circuit bench. Whether as senator or judge he yet would possess nerve, verve and audacity.

Since Anton Holly of Kewaunee is not to be in the assembly again this session should be considerably shortened; for he was a frequent talker who consumed a prodigious amount of stenographic indifference. Harboring congressional aspirations, he released his grip on the assembly and at the primary was voted back to private life. Holly's behavior was holding and shoes bearing labels defining their constituent elements. If bogs better is duly marked, any not fool, woe and rain? asked he a bit pertinently. Not distant possibly is Holly's vindication.

Both houses are certain of augmented decorum, judging by the assured absence of various members, who talked loud and long, who wrangled pretentiously, who manifested anger absurdly, who had scant respect for regularity in parliamentary procedure. By a marked loss is evidenced by the absence from the assembly of C. R. Perry of Wisconsin, the best poised personality in the popular branch, and more able. He was esteemed and respected alike by all conferees. Mr. Perry is the type of solid eminence befitting the bench and may he land there ere long!

Abeln C. Rele, who is to represent the Madison district in the assembly, will be well advised if he promptly discourages the gossip associating himself with the speaker. As something either he would have no opportunity whatever to display his solid abilities. It may be added that rarely is a first-gunner made speaker, this needs the scheduling in parliamentary practice only obtainable on the floor before hardening embarrassments in the chair.

A rich and honorable position is that of executive council, held for many years by M. B. O'Brien. This is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. These secret to the nose, cold in the head. It is found that the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will cure the disease, relieve the nose, and regular their lips liable to colds. Brought attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous membrane of the System, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions. All druggists. C. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

"Cold in the Head"

Executive council all measures passed by the legislature, and advises the governor respecting their constitutionality; and often no doubt also regarding their desirability. Likewise probably pass many a vote measure which the executive dutifully signs. The job is a creation wholly unknown till relatively recent times. Attorney general in its olden day performed this function with an additional compensation; just a watch dog by the governor's side surely is needed in this era of voluminous legislation often ill digested, frequently vitative of the fundamental law. Solons are won't occasionally to pass bills of questionable constitutionality with the admitted purpose of shouldering off responsibility upon the executive council. A conscientious executive council can thwart this grotesque evasion. Attorney O'Brien has blithely blundered many an attempt of this nature. The place is worth many thousands to its occupant. Mr. O'Brien has served the state ably. Incidentally, he is the voluntary treasurer of the late John M. Olin in the laudable enterprise of beautifying the capital city by means of parks and playgrounds.

Boards and commissions galore, many all but unknown to the public, are to be filled gradually by Governor Zimmerman as terms expire. For instance, there are the state annuity board, vocational education board, department of agriculture, medical, dental, bar, pharmacy, central, telephone, examining boards, the cemetery board, civil service, oil inspection, conservation, public affairs, agriculture, examiners of architects, athletic and production commissions, department of engineering, grain and warehouse commission, banking department, real estate and retirement boards, besides the two boards of records, insurance, reinsurance, railroad, and industrial commissions, board of control, conservation, commissioner, board of health, alluring salaries attached in many cases, expense in all including acreage-tributes to the capital and often cover all the commonwealth. Official inspectors fairly swarm. A truly great volume of public patronage falls to the lot of an incoming governor, and also much that pays richly.

The tent colony at the University of Wisconsin summer session housed 140 adults and 18 children.

With Friends Once More

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

What joy it brings to see again
 Those good old times I used to know—
 To meet the women and the men
 Who were my playmates long ago!
 The same dear smiles are here today
 That greeted me in childhood years.
 Though temples now are touched with gray
 And eyes have learned the hurt of tears.
 The same glad grip of cordial hands
 (Yes, even warmer than of old)
 That bears to him who understands
 The finest message ever told.
 The same unselfish kindness
 And thoughtful hospitality—
 Small favors that alone express
 True friendship's great reality.
 Oh, life is richer than before
 And lighted with a deeper glow.
 For I am with my friends once more—
 Those good old friends of long ago!

The answer is told in Gene Stratton-Porter's greatest story, "Laddie."

CLEAN PHOTOPLAYS are Always The Best

That the great American public is sick of jazz stories, of illicit love, of the smear and smudge of off-color "society", and the never-ending process, or of high-kickers and high-livers on our screen, has been vigorously shown by the unexampled success everywhere of

GENE STRATTON-PORTER'S
epic of the American Family

"LADDIE"

"Laddie," as well as all of Mrs. Porter's other great novels has been made into a clean motion picture. "Laddie" tells a fine, wholesome, vigorous story of love and family life in a typical American small town and pays tribute to the ties and traditions of the American family. Gene Stratton-Porter dedicated her life to clean stories and her spirit grows with the passing years despite the fact that her pen has been stilled by Death. "Laddie" is her greatest novel and, by all odds, the finest photoplay ever made from a Gene Stratton-Porter story. It gives us a deep sense of pleasure to present it.

Fred Sutcliffe's little son, Clifford, wanted to sell us some fish. We asked him what kind of fish he had to sell, and he said, redhorse and suckers. We said we wanted a bullhead, and he said: "I've got bullheads, but I can catch one for you. How big a one do you want, so long or so long?"

Now, if you should not find in our stock just what you want, if we should not have your size in the garment that appeals to you, we can, like little Clifford—figuratively speaking—catch it for you, and if it doesn't please you in every respect, don't take it, nor need you pay one penny.

If you are not trading at this store, it's because you don't realize the pretty fight we are putting up against high prices. We surely are giving them an awful wallop. Like champion hard-hitting sluggers, we put them to sleep with black eyes as fast as they enter the ring.

We have some great coats. They are snappy, new brilliant plaids. Every well-dressed man should have a sport jacket in his wardrobe.

MEN'S WARM, COLORFUL WOOL SHIRTS $1.50 to $5.00.
You'll certainly want two or three of our strikingly fancy plaid flannel shirts. They are the sportiest shirts of the season.

Last Day of Fashion Show.

Miss Dorothy Heller, better known as "Miss Madison," who captivated thousands of onlookers during the Atlantic City beauty pageant last week, was officially welcomed home to Madison Wednesday, and will lead nine other Madison beauties in a fall fashion promenade at the Strand Theatre. The fashion promenade, a yearly event in Madison, is being given by the Harry S. Manchester Inc. and the Strand Theatre in conjunction with the theatre's regular performance which includes a feature picture, Florida's orchestra and stage show. Mrs. Martha Dixon, buyer for Manchester's store, said a special trip had to be made to purchase the promenade.

One of the many features to be offered during the three days of the promenade will be the exhibition of $5,000 worth of wrap by "Miss Madison." This cost was purchased by Mr. Manchester this week and arrived in Madison Tuesday. When "Miss Madison" is not displaying the wrap at the Strand Theatre, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, it will be under police guard in a show window at the Manchester store. At night the wrap will be removed under armed guard to a vault where it will remain until the following morning when it will again be brought forth for the public to view.

In all, $50,000 worth of apparel will be displayed by "Miss Madison" and her company of five models. It includes multiple afternoon and sport wear, top coats, evening gowns, hosiery, shoes, hats and other wearing apparel that goes toward making the American girl the best dressed girl in the world.

Besides the clothes especially purchased for this promenade, there will be on display by "Miss Madison" the entire wardrobe she appeared in at the various events during the Atlantic City beauty pageant.

As a finale to the promenade, "Miss Madison" will appear in the flaming red bathing suit she wore during the pageant at Atlantic City.

C. T. A. Picnic at W. Sawie's

Members of the Arena Cow Testing Association met at Wm. S. Sawie's for their annual picnic last Saturday. A picnic lunch was enjoyed on the lawn. The afternoon was somewhat spoiled by the showers, but Mr. and Mrs. Sawie kindly donated the use of their spacious house.

Mr. Cramer, in charge of all the cow testing associations in the state, spoke of the value of testing and urged that the association be continued. He cited the example of one of the members of the Spring Green association who more than doubled the production of his herd in two years.

The men enjoyed a ball game between themselves while the ladies enjoyed their judgment by naming the number of berries on an ear of corn. Mrs. Frank Wolf won the milk strainer offered as a prize. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The man who can be depended upon to see the job through is ever beloved by his employer.

GRATITUDE

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Man, University of Illinois.

WHEN Jack came to Seattle with his inadequate financial resources, it was Coulter who took him into his office, gave him a job, made friends for him, and let him on his feet. The old man was proud of the boy, for Jack had a good physique, he had brains, he was his clothes well, and he was well-mannered.

He made friends easily. His position in Coulter's office made for him a wide circle of acquaintances, and he was not long until he had joined a club, was into society and became one of the well-known men of the town.

Then he gradually drifted away. Money was more plentiful, social pleasures attracted him, he had little to do with his old friend and almost, if not completely, forgot who it was who had given him a start. Ultimately he went off to a distant city.

"What do you hear from Jack?" I asked Coulter one day when I was in his office.

"I haven't heard from him," he replied.

"What's he doing?" I inquired.

"I'm ashamed to say it, but I really don't know. You see, he never told me, nor even said goodbye to me when he went away, and I haven't had a word from him since he left."

"But he owes almost everything to you," I said. "I should think you'd love him and never help a boy again when you get no gratitude, no appreciation."

"Kindness shown to others, like charity," he replied. "is its own reward. I learned long ago to do what I could to help young fellows and to be content with the personal satisfaction that comes from knowing that I have done a worthy thing. I never expect gratitude. Sometimes it comes, and this unexpected appreciation that one gets from having helped a man is the sweetest sort of reward, but I am never disappointed if I fail to receive it."

And he was right. Youth is thoughtless, selfish, and often ungrateful. It should be enough reward to any man to realize that he has done what he could in giving every young fellow a helping hand.

They use Long Distance to keep sales rolling.

An ATLANTA fire concern is profiting by a follow-up telephone sales campaign. Fifteen days after the visit of each salesman a "personal telephone" salesman gets the dealer on the telephone and solicits additional business. The telephone sales cost of this new business often runs as low as one-half of one per cent!

Are you and your concern using Long Distance to get new business at almost negligible expense—new business that otherwise would be lost? Are your customers using the telephone arm to keep in constant contact with their men and with important customers?

The telephone on your desk will connect you with a far-distant buyer or executive just as surely as it does with a man seated in the next street. Use now, any of the numerous convenient kinds of Bell Long Distance Service.
