Wisconsin Has One-Fourth Of Co-Testing Associations.

The 115 co-testing associations in Wisconsin, kept in operation with the assistance of county agents and specialists employed cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Department of Agriculture, equal almost one-fourth of all the associations of the country. Twelve of these associations have been organized since December 1, 1921, and membership in the State now numbers about 3,200 farmers owning 55,000 cows.

The aims of the associations have been to weed out unprofitable cows and to feed the animals balanced rations for maximum milk production. Records of the associations show the value of high-grade cows and purebred stock. Last year 355 purebred bulls were purchased by the associations and 83 scrub bulls replaced by purebreds in 50 associations.

A Government Homestead.

Homesteading is a liberal education, but it requires a keen sense of humor sometimes. For instance, I woke up one cold morning in my cabin, made a path through the snow over to the stove, melted the ice in the tea kettle, and upon opening the door to throw out the ashes, found a cow and calf frozen to death on my front and only four steps.

The disposition of the late livestock became my chief consideration as soon as the weather moderated a little. I had no way just then to haul them away. Burial was out of question for the ground was frozen solid, and I decided upon cremation. These rites lasted for the better part of two weeks, during which my whole supply of fuel vanished. I have since learned that a couple of gallons of kerosene would have saved most of my hard-chipped wood.

Homestead cabins are usually not elaborate. Occasionally we find one which boasts of windows on all sides, but such luxury is usually frowned upon by the older settlers. My house was a commodious twelve by fourteen, covered with a cheerful black tarred paper on sides and roof, and I had a window on one side. The fellow who built the place for me thought I needed the sun, and accordingly left cracks in the floor about an inch wide. During the summer a fairly good crop of hay found its way up through these cracks. Traffic between bed, stove, table, and water bucket naturally followed.

this tramped down somewhat, but got two good cuttings under the bed.

Some homesteads are worth taking up and some are not. I believe mine was worth while, for I had some trees and water on it, and got title to 640 acres by living on it for only seven months. Ex-service men, or their widows, heirs or assigns, can get special privileges under the homestead laws, and in many instances can get title to land after seven months' residence, but unless one does come under these special provisions, he must live on his place seven months a year for at least three years, and must put in improvements on it to the value of $1.25 per acre.

Many people jump into homesteading without knowing much about it. The writer knows this from experience. His own experience was not unpleasant nor yet unprofitable. It had its unpleasant phases, and it was often inconvenient when the pantry shelf failed to yield a much needed pinch of salt, or a dash of cayenne, and the nearest grocery was twenty-five miles away, but given fairly good land, and a congenial community, homesteading can be made well worth while.

UNUSUAL AND AMERICAN

Here is something unusual in coats, quite new and thoroughly American in style. It is a snappy spring coat with a sporty flavor, made of a novelty mixture and distinguished by leather patch-pockets and a leather belt. The pockets have long slashed fringe, decorated with steel beads, and they bring to mind cowboy and Indian trappings. The collar is convertible—the sleeves a new type.

Electrified Hen House Boosts The Egg Production.

G. C. Neff, of Madison, chairman of the rural lines committee of the Wisconsin Utilities Association, reports that farmers are not only interesting themselves in electric light and power services but that they also are seeking to procure those services in ever increasing numbers.

"William Orbit, of Arena, Wis., informs me," said Mr. Neff, "that since he installed electric lights in his chicken house he has increased egg production during the winter months from eight to eighty eggs per day. By increasing this production during the season of high egg prices, the extra money Mr. Orbit made on eggs in two months was sufficient to pay his electric bill for the whole year."

SOME PEOPLE SEEM TO THINK

That we do not advertise much. That is a mistake for we advertise every day. Every time we sell a suit of clothes or a bill of goods, we advertise. Our satisfied customer shows our good values to his friends and they come, and they in turn tell their friends, and so on like an endless chain. If we did not sell dependable merchandise at attractive prices, we would not receive this valuable advertising, and then we would have to raise a lot of dust to attract attention.

Now is a good time to buy what you may need, for our stock is still complete. If you are in need of a suit of clothes, a hat, or shoes, or dress goods, or anything in our line, come and let us show you what we can do for you.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE PLATE

How the Spirit of Giving Was Manifested in the Churches a Hundred Years Ago.

Fresh-laid eggs are frequently deposited on the contribution plate in some of the backwoods Episcopal churches of the South. Which goes to show that the spirit of giving hasn't changed so very much.

Years ago so of the Church Missionary society. The first report of the society dated May 20, 1850, was up to the other day, and while it shows no contribution of eggs, a score of other articles of merchandise seem to have found their way to the plate from the people who gave "according to their means."

This report, for instance, shows that back in 1851 David Buchanan gave a basket of groceries for the support of the missionaries; Stephen North contributed a medicine chest; William Tawland, a cross-cut saw;

Joe and John Needles, two stoves; S. Massey, a coffee mill. John and T. Gully contributed, also, a singularity empty gift—a safe. John Hanson came along with a tub, whether bath or wash is not stated.

C. Buckley is credited on the books with "deduction on hat," $1.50; John McCallister donates a thermometer. Among other miscellaneous are hymn books, staves, gaudes, shoes, trousers, chairs, soap, bedlides and locks. Finally from one Richard Markall there is a hophod of tobacco, which encourages the hope that some good missionary of the church in his lonely station afar off enjoyed a comfortable smoke, says the publicity department of the Protestant Episcopal church.

HORSE A PRACTICAL JOKER

South American Physician Tells of Quadruped With Well-Developed Sense of Humor.

Have horses a sense of humor? A South American doctor has one which is said to be fond of a practical joke.

Visiting a farmhouse, the doctor tied the animal to a post near where hung a rope attached to a large bell, used as a dinner signal for the workmen. Then he went to see his patient.

A few minutes later the bell rang violently. The doctor looked out, but could see nothing. Again the bell rang. At the third ring the doctor conceived himself behind a tree in the yard, and kept watch on the bell-rope.

Then, to his astonishment, he saw his horse lift up his head, seize the rope between its teeth and give it a violent pull. After that the doctor sprang out and faced the animal, which put on a look of complete innocence.

When the doctor saw that the horse got a sunny position from going for his palm. The animal, however, careful not, kicked the cat and basket sky-high and then trotted off with a low chuckle of glee—Brooklyn Eagle.

Ancient English Food Laws.

There were pure food laws in England as long ago as the year 1291, and those who violated them received punishment to fit the crime.

The Guildhall librarian has been exploring an old box of parchments deposited long ago with the corporation by the Poulterers company.

Habits are long-lived in the city. Poultry has been sold since the middle of the fourteenth century at Lead-hall, where the city men today buy a bird to take home in the evening.

But nowadays a goose costs more than sixpence. On the other hand, a poulterer who unluckily sells bad pigeons has got to stand in the pillory while the pigeons are burned under his nose.

This happened in 1881 to a "poulterer" who sold 18 pigeons "in contempt of the city and deceit of the people" for that the same were putrid and an abomination to mankind.—Lincoln Correspondence of the New York World.

Bust Shows Two Natures.

The United Service club is one of London's famous clubs in Pall Mall for officers of the twin British services, the navy and the army. Busts of naval and military heroes adorn the hall. The duke of Wellington with his stately and aristocratic look gazed down on members as they passed through the main entrance. Honesty, pride and dignity are written there.

But a head of Lord Nelson at the side is more interesting. Each side of the face is modeled differently, so that the impression of a man of the world is given as you look at the portrait from the left, and of a dragoon as you look at it from the right. In the pose case the modeling is firm. In the other not. Even the eyes are shown, are different. The bust is a replica by the famous English artist, Flaxman, the original of which is in possession of the family—Christian Science Monitor.

The Healthy Eskimo.

It is said that the Eskimos of the remotest north are the healthiest people you can find anywhere. Contact with white folks has, however, brought deterioration and demoralization. The influence of civilization has been bad, and may be worse; it may even result in the extinction of the hardy race. Only when they are left wholly to their own devices are the Eskimos healthy, and this is indeed remarkable, for their devices are few and the hardships of their lives are many.

Ex-Soldier Ray Ritter Invents The World's Greatest Cleaner.

Two and one-half years ago I started to experiment on a Cleaner at LaCrosse. I worked from twelve to eighteen hours a day, and tried over one thousand different ways to get a Cleaner that would clean anything and not injure.

This Cleaner comes in one-quart glass fruit jars. It is a white, creamy color, and it cleans easier and quicker than any other cleaner on the market.

I have taken lots of stains from serge suits and coats, where the dry cleaner had failed. Mr. Lee, of Baraboo, Wis., was at work on his car and happened to get some grease on his coat sleeve. I sent it to dry cleaners. They charged him a dollar for cleaning. In about three days afterwards, the stain came back.

He thought the coat was ruined. I happened to come along with my Cleaner. I laid his coat on the table, put some Cleaner on a brush, scrubbed it for three minutes, took a wet cloth and wiped the suds off—stain gone! A year ago Dr. C. M. Koch got some iodine on his good pants. They tried different things to bring the stain out, and it ruined the looks of his pants. I took that stain out and did not injure the fabric or color.

It will clean white hats and makes them just as white as snow. It cleans white shoes, felt hats, and silk lining in coats. It removes any stains from silks, and won't take out the color. On some goods, where water spots, it will not work.

FOR CLEANING

On wood work, it does not make any difference how dirty it is, or how nice, if it is varnished, painted or enameled, you can clean it without injuring the gloss. For varnished floors so many recommend it. Wash the floor two or three times a year. It takes off all the dust and dirt. It is surprising how much dirt you will get in the water. It makes a big improvement in looks. On painted walls it takes about a tablespoonful to one quart of water. It cleans the wall even all over and gives it a good gloss. It will remove any stain from rugs, except ink or rust. I have demonstrated on lots of rugs where the people claimed they had tried different cleaners—soaps, ammonia, gasoline—and nothing would take out the stain. I took a little hard brush and some Cleaner, scrubbed it good, and out came the stain.

Mrs. Gettie, at Baraboo, spilled furniture polish on her rug. I took a brush and Cleaner, scrubbed a few minutes, and took the stain out, and made the rug look like new. Mrs. Zuah, 1st St., Baraboo, spilled soot on her rug when she took the stove down, and ruined the looks of the rug. I took that stain out. The way this Cleaner is used is about one-half

Cleaner and one-half water. Scrub with brush; it foams; the dirt comes in the foam; then take a wet cloth and wipe the foam off. I have taken tar and gum from rugs. It can be used for shampooing the rugs; it makes them look like new. A year ago Dr. Shehe, of Tomah, sent her rugs away to have them shampooed. It cost her $9.00. This year she bought one quart of Ritter's Easy Cleaner and cleaned two of her big rugs, making them look like new. Lots of women have told me they use the Cleaner for washing serge dresses and make them like new.

MEDICATED USE

I have lots of recommendations for shampooing the hair. It works just as well as any high priced shampoo on the market. Dampen the hair with warm water, then add the Cleaner. Rub thoroughly. Put enough on so that it will lather freely. Then rinse in luke warm water two or three times. It makes the hair soft and fluffy, medicates the skin, and keeps the scalp in a healthy condition. Lots of people use this Cleaner for washing the face, and for bathing. It cleans the pores, medicates the skin, and keeps you in a more healthy condition.

If you have any sores or bruises of any kind, put a little Cleaner in the water and wash the sore with it. It cleans the sore, and when you put on ointment or other medicine will cause it to heal twice as quickly.

If you happen to get some stove polish or automobile grease on your hands, rub the Cleaner on your hands. Makes them white and soft.

So many people have said that they do not see how one cleaner can do so many things; it will clean rugs, and yet it will heal cuts and shampoo hair! Most of the soaps on the market that clean are made from lye and fat. It is the lye that injures everything. Instead of putting lye in this Cleaner, I have a drug that does the cleaning. That drug comes in liquid form. I put this drug in four different processes, and when it comes out of the last process it is harmless, and yet it cleans and heels, but does not injure. I also put in some fat and coconut oil, and other drugs.

Guaranteed free from acid, potash, or lye, ammonia, gasoline, or chloroform.

The "Daylight" Washer--The Masterpiece

Washes, Aerates, Sterilizes, Bleaches, and Wrings the Clothes, all at the same time.

Vacuum and Aeration—the principle on which the "Daylight" washes—makes sure that both air and sudsy water are forced down through the fabric, and then drawn up through it again. This repeated action is what brings your clothes out white, fluffy, air-blown and thoroughly clean with no pull or strain on the fabrics.

Compare blankets washed this way and those "matted" by other methods.
