CHURCHES :: SOCIETIES

The Community Church.—Rev. Geo. V. R. Shepard, Pastor. Services, Sunday, July 9, 1922: 10:30, Morning worship, subject of sermon, "God's 'Calvin Not Debatable.'" 11:45, Church school, 6:30, Christian Endeavor, 7:30, Evening worship; subject of sermon, "Flying Our Flag."

M. E. Church.—The fourth quarterly conference for Black Earth and Mazomanie charge will be held at Black Earth, Monday, July 10, at 8:00 p. m. Every church official, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Ladies Aid societies, and Epworth League presidents are expected to be present and have a complete report of their departments. At this conference the work for next year will be planned. The on hand and vote for what you want next conference year.

Next Sunday the pastor will preach in Mazomanie at 11:00 a. m. Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. One hundred and twenty-seven were at Sunday school last Sunday. That beats all records. Let the good work go on until every person in the community has a Sunday school and church home.—W. P. Burrows, Pastor.

Automobile Driving.

Don't dash by street cars as they are about to stop.

Put yourself behind the other man's steering wheel.

Don't drive jerkily. It keeps the man behind you worried.

Get the hand-signal habit. It protects you as well as others.

Remember that the pedestrian at the crossing has a right to cross.

Slow down and keep to the right as you come to the crest of a hill.

Don't dispute the crossing with a railway train. What's the hurry?

When your brakes aren't working, the time to get them fixed is NOW.

Don't laugh at timid passengers. They are your guests. Make them comfortable.

If you forget the Rules of the Road, you can safely fall back on the Golden Rule.

You have to spin through mud or water.

Don't try to pass the car ahead when another car is approaching from the opposite direction.

When a driver in the wrong insists on the right-of-way, let him have it. You can't argue with a fool.

Don't expect children to look out for themselves. The fact that it was the child's "fault" doesn't make death less terrible.

When a man behind wants to pass, slow down and draw over. It's safer to have him speeding ahead of you than alongside you.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best remedy for diarrhoea is asked for, and so because they know from what their customers say, that it can be depended upon.—Ad.

FOR ALL BACKGROUNDS

Stretch Tired Muscles.

Here are a few suggestions for building up the nerves. Sleep always on a low pillow, drink fresh, pure, unfiltered cod liver oil, eat eggs, cranberries, apples, maple sugar, onions, beans and celery. Sleep at least eight hours during the 24 and nine hours will be better.

If you are tired you can pull yourself out of that state. When tired and fatigued take a few minutes off and literally stretch out of tiredness and into a state of vigor and vitality.

Lie flat on your back, slip your toes under the foot of the bed or any place where they may be held firm, and pull up as hard as you can without rising from that flat position. Do this several times and then, after a brief rest, repeat the treatment.

As a purgative, Chamberlain's Tablets are the exact thing required. Strong enough for the most robust, mild enough for children. They cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any of that terrible griping. They are easy and pleasant to take and agreeable in effect.—Ad.

Radiating Happiness.

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted.—Stevenson.

Aid to Prayer.

Prayer is always most effective when mixed with equal parts of sweat.—Baltimore Sun.

Salt Makers of Ball.

"May the sea never lose its salt!"

prays the Ballinese, who likes his rice salted. (Ball is an island near Java, under Dutch protection.) On a well-levied, sandy plot the salt makers work in the sun, scattering sea water from light bowls, skillfully fashioned from palm leaves. When the sun has absorbed the moisture, the laborers carefully skim off the surface sand, carry it to the shaded huts at the shore and there the sand has the moisture of the sea, and draw off the brine into shallow vessels of coconut wood, which they set out in the sun. "In a few hours nothing remains but pure salt. The salt gained through this primitive process is deemed very precious by the Ballinese, who will sell his treasures for salt when money will not tempt him. But then money is of little value on Ball. High finance is unknown among the simple, agricultural people, and trade is still largely a matter of barter.—Asia Magazine.

Australian Cattle Stations.

Afghan camels are practically the only means of transport in Central Australia. The North South railway runs at present from Port Augusta, near Adelaide, to Oodnadatta, but beyond Oodnadatta the sandy nature of parts of the territory makes it impossible to use motors or wagons. Central Australia is by no means a desert; it is a land of wonderful possibilities for raising horses and cattle. In many parts the vegetation is luxuriant but the country is so thinly populated that enormous areas are owned by a few people. One man owns 4,000 square miles—more than half the area of Wales. When central Australia is opened up and irrigated it may well become one of the most prosperous parts of Australia.

JOHN MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Medical reports show men are more subject to appendicitis although many sudden cases occur among women. It can be guarded against by preventing intestinal constipation. The intestinal catarrhs, Adler-Ka, acts on BOTH upward lower bowel, removing all foul, decaying matter which might cause infection. It brings out matter you never thought was on your system and which may have been poisoning you for months. Adler-Ka is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach.—H. Lappley, druggist.

At the school meeting of District No. 2, Joint, Monday evening, N. C. Kirch was re-elected director. An appropriation of $5,000 for general school purposes was made, the amount being $1,500 less than was appropriated a year ago. The regular routine business was transacted, with the customary provisions.

A nice, gentle rain began falling, Thursday afternoon, and continued for many hours, developing into a thunder storm early this morning. The ground was soaked. Had the rain held off much longer, some really promising crops would have suffered serious damage. A good crop of rye is now being harvested, and oats, corn and other crops are looking unusually fine.

TOOK REINDEER TO ENGLAND

Attempt to Colonize the Animal Was Not a Success—Marked Intelligence Shown by Them.

A hundred years ago it was thought that the mountain forests of Great Britain might be colonized by reindeer from Lapland, and an account was given in 1821 in an issue of the Observer, London, of the extraordinary sagacity displayed by them when a number were brought to England at the instigation of an eminent naturalist, Mr. Bullock. The herd was accompanied by a Laplander, to whom the animals were attached and to whose wishes they were usually obedient. All went well till they arrived at the place of embarkation, when the herdsmen invited the deer to follow him to the boat. When the leader of the herd put his foot upon the first leading to the vessel he started back in alarm. It was the first uneasy ground he had ever trod. Fresh invitations followed the herdsmen and fresh investigations followed, the whole herd looking on and watching the proceedings with entire confidence in the captain, not attempting to move till he gave them a signal that all was well. After a time he seemed to be reassured and in a majestic manner entered the vessel, where he trod upon every plank and carefully examined everything. When he had satisfied himself that it was perfectly safe, he uttered a kind of snort, when the hitherto passive herd bounded into the boat and in three minutes all had embarked. The account continues that the vessel was overloaded and the intelligent leader indicated this to his followers. "Were we not assured of the fact, we could hardly credit it," the reporter continues. "As he had intimated other things, he also intimated this to his followers. No sooner was this done than the individual deer he appeared to leaped into another boat."

The experiment did not prove a success, but the marked intelligence of the reindeer made a deep impression upon the public.

HOW THE MOLLUSKS TRAVEL

Attach Themselves to Water Fowl and Are Thus Transported for Considerable Distances.

One of the problems that continually confronts the naturalist is to account for the distribution of identical forms of life among widely separated localities. Investigation frequently shows that this has been accomplished in many ways that appear quite simple when once discovered, although one would hardly have thought of them in advance of their actual detection. Some interesting facts have been brought out concerning the dispersion of aquatic insects, mollusks, and other small animals. It appears that water fowl play an important part in this work. Ducks have been known to carry mussels attached to their feet a hundred miles or more. Bivalve mollusks not infrequently cling to the toes of wading birds, and are thus transported for considerable distances. Even aquatic insects have been known to carry small fresh-water mollusks attached to their legs.

In such manner does Nature compel the various inhabitants of the earth to assist one another whether they will or not.

Seeks Origin of Dancing.

Can it be, in any sense, possible to conjecture that the origin of dancing came from the desire to escape from one's self, into an imaginary world?

In that case, it might also have been a form of madness, as one finds it in the Dionysian intoxication at the Attic festivals, when wine and the delirium, the satyrs and the maenads, were closely linked together, writes Arthur Symonds in the Forum.

Certainly, even now, one of the best means in escaping from one's self is dancing. Under fixed conditions, the only one. The question is: Can one ever escape from one's self?

There are so many means. There is, for instance, a rapture in the dance which intoxicates every sense to a point of human infinity; that is, while one is dancing. After, comes the recollection. No rapture can ever be measured, while one endures it, it has no limits. But, alas! for one's finite nature, nothing lasts.

American Democracy.

Whoever in America desires to better his fellowmen must act by influencing their intellect. If he wishes to see no idle man and no poor man in the land, he must take care that there shall be no ignorant man. Ignorance is the mother of superstition and misery. Men are better in proportion as they are wiser. In whatever direction we look we see the improvement. The physical man is more powerful, the intellectual man is more perfect, the moral man more pure. The morality of a nation is the aggregate of the morality of the individuals. A lazy man is necessarily a bad man; an idle is necessarily a demoralized population.—John William Draper.

Mice Had Used Sieves.

About a year ago I was having a fancy dress made. When the sleeves were finished, they mysteriously disappeared. I looked for them for days, but could not find them. Last week I took the back off the organ to clean it, and imagine my surprise to find my sleeves made into a mouse nest in the bottom of the organ.—Chicago Journal.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and Blood Purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

DINING CAR LOSSES

The traveling public expects to enjoy on trains as good food and service as is offered by the best hotels.

To meet this demand the railroads yearly spend for dining car service considerably more than they receive therefrom.

Last year the Milwaukee Road served $15,000 meals. Receipts per meal averaged $1.05, while the cost of food, service and supplies amounted to $1.25—a net loss of 20 cents per passenger served.

This does not include expense of heating and lighting, interest on investment, nor cost of handling the 54 cars nearly six million miles for the convenience of the public.

CHIPSO

FREE!

To wash without boiling or rubbing, soak white clothes over night in a solution made by dissolving one to two cupfuls of Chipso in a little boiling water and adding cold water until the suds are cool. Soften water if necessary. The quantity of Chipso depends on the hardness of the water and how badly the clothes are soiled. Do not pack Chipso into cup. Rub wristbands, etc., with a little Chipso just as it comes from the package. Be sure that suds entirely cover clothes. In the morning, rinse the clothes thoroughly until the water runs clear; blue, starch, and hang out as usual. Only bands and edges and badly soiled spots need rubbing. No boiling.

SOME PEOPLE SEEM TO THINK

That we do not advertise much. That is a mistake for we advertise every day. Every time we sell a suit of clothes or a bill of goods, we advertise. Our satisfied customer shows our good values to his friends and they come, and they in turn tell their friends, and so on like an endless chain. If we did not sell dependable merchandise at attractive prices, we would not receive this valuable advertising, and then we would have to raise a lot of dust to attract attention.

Now is a good time to buy what you may need, for our stock is still complete. If you are in need of a suit of clothes, a hat, or shoes, or dress goods, or anything in our line, come and let us show you what we can do for you.

SHIPPING BOARD CHAIRMAN RE-VIEWS RISE AND DECLINE OF AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE AND TELLS WHY NATION MUST FACE ISSUE OF DISPOSITION OF GOVERNMENT OWNED FLEET.

Note: This is the first of a series of six articles on the American Merchant Marine by the Chairman of the Shipping Board.

ARTICLE I.
Nations, like individuals, are seldom the masters of their own destinies. Whether America will flourish, the time has come when we must perform our part in the world stage of world commerce—a place never occupied in history by any nation not strong in sea power.

The first act passed by the American Congress was designed to aid American shipping by making the tariff lower on goods when shipped in American bottoms than when shipped under foreign flag.

From the time of the union of our original thirteen coastal states until the Civil War, one of the leading industries in America was shipping. Through our superior ability in the construction of ships and the proximity of our raw materials for wooden ships (which were the only ships of those days), America's sea annals of that period constitute a proud page in the history of the republic.

Treaties Forbid Discrimination.
By 1824, through treaties, the policy of discrimination, preferential tariffs and similar legislation came to an end. Today the United States has something over one hundred commercial treaties forbidding such practices.

There were several major factors that contributed to our willingness to neglect our merchant marine after the close of the Civil War. Among these was the development of our rich central and far west. Not only was the adventurous youth lured west of the Alleghenies but capital found better opportunity for profit in the development of our rich inland empire. With the finding of gold in California the lure of adventure and profit drew our young men from the eastern seaboard belt to the great undeveloped territory lying to the westward. The movement then inaugurated a movement of vast importance to ourselves and indeed the whole world marked the beginning of the rapid decline of the American Merchant Marine.

At about the same time the iron Age was beginning to dawn. America was not in a position to build iron ships in competition with Great Britain whose coal and iron ore lay practically at seaboard where the ships were constructed. We had not then as yet developed our great iron industry nor our steel industry which followed later.

In addition to these very compelling reasons, America required all the borrowed capital she could get, particularly for the development of her railroads. These roads were built as a result of the encouragement given by Government subsidies of land grants and they formed the arteries through which the wealth of the central and western portions of our country poured.

Subsidy Like Tariff Protection.
In order to insure the development of our infant industries, America adopted a system of high tariffs for the product of factory, mine and the farm alike. Thus, American ships had to be built by the highest paid labor in the world and operated by crews receiving high wages.

None would have American standards of living lower than they are; but the insurmountable handicap caused thereby to American shipping built and operated by protected labor is obvious.

slow than the Kaiser's recognition that America was verily arranging to open the Atlantic with a bridge of ships.

Cannot Depend On Foreigners
America emerged from the war a creditor nation, whereas before it had been a debtor nation. Prior to 1914 the maritime nations of the world, to whom we owed vast sums could surely be counted upon to send their ships to our shores that we might pay in our products the debts we owed them. We must now compete with them if we are to dispose of our surplus products in the available markets of the world. It is not to be supposed they will give us those facilities which are essential to world commerce to enable us to compete with them.

Of the 1430 steel ships owned by the Government 983 are tied up; the other 447 the Government has been operating to make sure the American flag shall reach every needed port of the world. This operation is being conducted at a cash loss of $50,000,000 a year and at the expense of the deterioration of the fleet.

President Harding and the present Shipping Board aver, because of reasons to be covered in subsequent articles, that Government operation of ships is impossible on the one hand, and that for America to turn back and depend on foreigners for the sea carriage is unthinkable on the other. The only alternative is to make it possible for private American initiative to maintain American flag ships on the sea and to get the Government itself out of the business of ship operation.

In my next article I will discuss the composition of the Government fleet and in subsequent articles the problem of its disposition.

Seasoned Timbers.
Experiments made by the United States forest service have demonstrated that thoroughly air-dried timber has about double the strength of green timber. Moreover, in order effectively to apply preservative agents to timber, it must be first seasoned, because it is very difficult to inject preservatives into the green wood.

In my next article I will discuss the composition of the Government fleet and in subsequent articles the problem of its disposition.

At about the same time the iron Age was beginning to dawn. America was not in a position to build iron ships in competition with Great Britain whose coal and iron ore lay practically at seaboard where the ships were constructed. We had not then as yet developed our great iron industry nor our steel industry which followed later.

In addition to these very compelling reasons, America required all the borrowed capital she could get, particularly for the development of her railroads. These roads were built as a result of the encouragement given by Government subsidies of land grants and they formed the arteries through which the wealth of the central and western portions of our country poured.

Subsidy Like Tariff Protection.
In order to insure the development of our infant industries, America adopted a system of high tariffs for the product of factory, mine and the farm alike. Thus, American ships had to be built by the highest paid labor in the world and operated by crews receiving high wages.

None would have American standards of living lower than they are; but the insurmountable handicap caused thereby to American shipping built and operated by protected labor is obvious.

At the start of the World War in 1914, America's passenger fleet in the North Atlantic had dwindled to the shameful total of six vessels. The aid given them in the way of postal subsidy by our Government was undoubtedly the chief reason four of them were able to continue in service at that date. Our whole fleet of sea-going steel and iron ships at that time totaled only one million gross tons as compared with eighteen million tons for Great Britain exclusive of her colonies.

Fortunately for us, Great Britain and her Allies, in the conduct of the war before our entry and afterwards, war before our entry and afterwards, needed all the surplus products we could supply and demanded ever increased production from us. As is recalled that a vastly different situation prevailed during the Boer War and the farmer and wool grower of America will remember what happened to them during that period when British ships were not available to carry our surpluses and we had no merchant marine of our own.

The "Daylight" Washer—The Masterpiece
Washes, Aerates, Sterilizes, Bleaches, and Wrings the Clothes, all at the same time.
Vacuum and Aeration—the principle on which the "Daylight" washes—makes sure that both air and sudsy water are forced down through the fabric, and then drawn up through it again. This repeated action is what brings your clothes out white, fluffy, air-blown and thoroughly clean with no pull or strain on the fabrics.
