Emergency Hay Crops Prevent Farm Losses.

How can a farmer save himself from loss when his clover or alfalfa have been winter killed or his corn has failed?

The answer is an emergency hay crop to take the place of the missing clover and a catch crop for the deficient corn, and both cases are thoroughly described in a new free bulletin on emergency hay crops, published by the Wisconsin Experiment Station.

The best emergency hay crops for Wisconsin, according to G. B. Mortimer, are: soybeans, oats, field peas, Sudan grass, and millet in various combinations. Oats and field peas are adapted to early seeding and the rest are better if used in later cases.

Soybeans, millet, and Sudan grass, because of their adaptation to late seeding, are useful as catch crops. Sudan grass is also useful on land infested with noxious weeds as a winter crop.

Badger city and rural schools sent 2,368 pupils and teachers to visit the Wisconsin State Historical museum last year.

Cows Bring $35 More With C. T. A. Records.

A cow testing association record is worth at least $20 a head in the auction sale.

This is the statement of F. R. Austin, tester for the Avoca association, in his annual report for 1921, 1922, and 1923.

Here is the way in which he states the case:

"During the last three years, five members of this association held auction sales at which the tester had the herd record book in to sale ring, and called out the record of each cow as herd record book in the sale ring, and a conservative estimate that the average selling price was at least $200 higher than it would have been had it not been for the testing association record."

"In the spring of 1923, four auction sales were held within a radius of six miles and within a period of one month. Two of the people holding the auctions were cow testing association members, and the other two were not. At the two sales, where there were no production records, 25 cows averaged $53.00. At the two C. T. A. members where the records were read off, 50 cows averaged $88.00. In this case the cows with the C. T. A. records sold for an average of $35.00 more per cow than the ones without records. The extra amount received for each cow nearly paid the cost of testing the entire herd for a year."

MARKVILLE

Leola Neundorff celebrated her birthday on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Matz were guests at the Wm. Matz home Sunday.

A number of guests helped celebrate Leonard Thies' birthday on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hoessel, of McFarland, were guests at the Peter Walser home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hilgendorf and son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hilgendorf and family.

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Walser on Saturday evening, in honor of their wedding anniversary.

What people are talking about can be told from the thousands of requests for package libraries on current topics that are received by the Badger university extension division.

OBITUARY

John B. Emery.

John B. Emery was born in Clairmont County, Ohio, April 12, 1841, and died at the home of his son, Gayle, Mazomanie, Wis., February 27, 1924, at 8:30 in the afternoon, after an illness of but a week. Mr. Emery was a Civil War veteran, having enlisted as a private at the opening of the war. His work was of so high a quality that he rose to the rank of Captain before the close of hostilities. He was wounded three times and the wounds were serious enough in their nature to incapacitate him from taking up the work for which he longed to fit himself the profession of law.

Barred from this coveted course, he married Helena E. Cox, in Ohio, in 1865, and in 1867 moved to Missouri and turned his attention to tilling the soil. In 1880, the great promise of the northwest beckoned him and he became a resident of Minneapolis, Minn. Later he lived for a time on a ranch in South Dakota. The year 1913 saw him following his son to the village of Mazomanie, Wis., and here the journey was ended. Here he was required to part with the loving companion who had walked so bravely by his side through sunshine and shadow. Here he himself was to hear the last command, "All rest."

Of an unassuming, kindly, generous nature, Mr. Emery was like unto the great Commander-in-chief under whom he fought to "preserve the old flag whole." Although he longed to go and we would not wish him back, he will be sorely missed in the home circle, and by those who knew him best.

He leaves to mourn for him, three sons, Albert D. and Frank R. of Minneapolis, Minn., and Gayle, of Mazomanie, Wis.; two daughters, Mrs. C. P. Timmonds, of Chippewa Falls, Mrs. F. J. Caton, of Minneapolis, Minn.; several grandchildren, and other relatives and friends. All the children except Albert were present at the funeral, which was held from the home Friday afternoon, Rev. George Shepard having charge of the ceremonies.

Interment was made in the Mazomanie cemetery beside his wife, whose spirit awaited him on the other shore.

In addition to the children, Miss Dorothy Timmonds, of Chippewa Falls, a granddaughter, was present for the funeral.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our thanks to the Veterans and Sons of Veterans of the G. A. R. and to the drummer, Harold Swartengren, who so kindly tendered their services at the burial of our father, John B. Emery.

SAFETY ON HIGHWAYS AND IN TOWNS SOUGHT

That traffic accidents on highways as well as on crowded city streets are happening too often, and with too serious results, is the conclusion reached by automotive interests after careful study of the question.

To aid in clearing up a difficult situation and finding a remedy for the trouble, the Traffic Planning and Safety Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce is enlisting the interest and support of newspapers all over the country, asking that in reporting motor accidents they endeavor to ascertain the cause and forward a weekly summary to the headquarters of the committee in New York.

MAZOMANIE, WIS., MARCH 7, 1924

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

MT. HOREB.—The regular monthly meeting of the Mt. Horeb Advance-ment Association has been postponed until Tuesday evening, March 11th. Mrs. E. F. Sage, of Blanchardville, a sister of Ed. Anderson, of this vil-lage, died Monday, March 3, 1924. Betty Jane, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fink, was operated on by Doctors Buckner, Torrey and Lipsey at the Buckner hospi-tal, Saturday afternoon, for a mas-toid.

A crowded village hall with many people standing, greeted Solomon Le-vitas, state treasurer, and William T. Elyse, editor of The Capital Times, in a meeting held at Mt. Horeb Fri-day night.

The Older Boys Conference was a great success, over 100 boys were in attendance. The various sessions went along smoothly all the speakers be-ing present and the boys taking part in fine style.

Mt. Horeb is to be congratulated on having one of the best equipped small poultry plants in this part of the state, which the writer has ever had the privilege of visiting. In the Tepee Poultry Farm owned and man-aged by E. Jacobson.

A large crowd gathered Tuesday evening in the Opera House at Blue Mounds, and welcomed Mrs. George Helmenstine and family. The evening was spent in playing cards and luncheon was served. A small col-lection was taken and given Mrs. Helmenstine to remember the occa-sion.—Times.

SPRING GREEN.—C. J. Dreen was up town Tuesday for the first time since his leg was broken.

Ole Ellstrom went to Madison Tues-day, to see his wife at the general hospital.

G. I. Richardson brought his wife home from the hospital Saturday. Mrs. Richardson is getting along nicely.

Hilda Leona Bauer, aged 32, died Saturday night, February 16th, about ten o'clock at St. Mary's hospital, at Madison.

Mrs. G. F. Post was brought home Wednesday from the Methodist hospi-tal, Madison, where she underwent an operation February 19th, for the removal of a tumor from her side.

Mrs. Will Billington, of Spring Green, is one of Wisconsin's best literary detectives. Jacob Laubenthal, chief of Mil-waukee police, in a report selecting the nine best solutions for the mys-terious murder published in the Mil-waukee Journal. Mrs. Will Billington ranked first in the mystery story contest but took second place among the women.—Home News.

PRAIRIE DU SAC.—Carl Krueger, father of Mrs. Bernice Elendahl, died

HOUSING SITUATION BEING MET IN U. S.

Majority of City Folks Prefer Apartment Buildings.

Washington, D. C.—Homes for 370,000 families in the United States were provided by the annual building program of 1923 in cities and towns with a population of 25,000 or more.

A detailed compilation of all build-ing in the country by the Federal Bureau of Labor has just been completed. It does not include farm dwellings and those in small communities.

Unless American families are multi-plying faster than census figures in-dicate, however, the housing situation in the country is being met.

Prefer Apartment Buildings.
The department figures show an in-creasing tendency on the part of urban dwellers to concentrate in apartmen-tal houses and two-family dwellings. The figures cover 272 of the 288 cities with 25,000 or more of population. They show that more than half of the build-ing construction, 51.6 per cent, was for residence purposes, and that resi-dence buildings ran 41.6 per cent of the total cost of a building construc-tion program which ran nearly $2,000,000,000.

Of the 235,001 residential buildings projected in 1922, 183,538, or 40 per cent, were one-family dwellings. Original estimates of cost of these dwell-ings made a total of $772,800,000, or less than a third of the total cost of new buildings.

The average estimated cost per one family house was $4,208. The average estimated cost in 1921 was $3,367. Attention is called to the fact that costs are frequently underestimated.

Permits issued during the year called for 183,538 one-family dwellings, 84,827 two-family dwellings, 5,011 dwellings with store combined, 9,629 apartment houses, 1,128 apartment houses or flats with stores combined and several hundred hotels and lodging houses.

More Churches Than Theaters.
Among non-residential buildings the greatest number erected were resi-dent garages. There were 161,202 of them, or more than a third of the new dwellings, but their cost was only 5 per cent of the total cost of building operations in the cities. Such gar-ages are, now rated in government fig-ures as accessory buildings.

The department report says: "In spite of the fact that the present has been denounced as a 'lax' year, it will be noticed that in 1922 in cities having a population of 25,000 or over there were built more churches than amuse-ment buildings, but while there were more churches than amusement build-ings built, over $10,000,000 more was spent for the construction of amuse-ment buildings than for churches."

River Channel Yields

Up Carven Stone Fish

Oregon City, Ore.—Deep in the original channel of the Willamette river here was found recently a "car-ven fish," which has been added to a collection of relics of prehistoric life in the possession of O. A. Hollingsworth. The shape was uncovered when exca-vation was being made for an addition to a local paper mill.

The stone, about 12 inches long and 7 inches high, is roughly carved in the shape of a fish, with mouth, eyes, gills and fins. Hollingsworth believes the stone, which shows signs of being worn by water, was carried along the river in floods of bygone years from the upper Willamette, possibly from the region of the present-day build-ing at Albany, Ore. In his opinion, some early day savage with an artistic bent carved the fish by chance and noting its general shape was that of a fish, took his rough in-struments and carved in the eyes, gills and fins.

About 30 sick and crippled children are being treated at the Bradley Memorial hospital at the University of Wisconsin.

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

There is no false glamor about the people in an Oppenheim tale. Generally he presents the worst side of their character. His heroes how they drink and carry on [the scene is England not America] just as normal folks do in some countries, and then by slow degrees he begins to reveal their better side. The final result is a pretty likable, clean lot of folks who are more devoted to outdoor sports and healthy living than they are to dissipation. And the author has the genius to fit these people into romantic, even heroic roles, without making them either priggish or immoral and without destroying their naturalness and reality. "The Evil Shepherd" is a lively, charming, thrilling tale.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

A complete surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. John King, Sr., Sat-urday evening, March 3d, the occasion being their 38th wedding anniversary. About seventy-five neighbors and friends came to their home, and after "sprinkling the surprise" led them to the Guild Hall. After congratula-tions, cards and dancing, were the amusements of the evening until super-tine. Two magnificent wedding cakes, a groom's cake and a bride's cake, were in evidence. A beautiful supper served in the hall. Every one reported an excellent time, and that Mr. and Mrs. King were as spry as they were thirty-eight years ago.

"Would you spend twenty dollars for one of these garments? Would you? Why, we believe that when you get one of them and it fits you, five dollars more would not worry you for one second. But we price them at $20.00 and we assure you they are wonderful values. When we say "wonderful values" we are not re-ferring to the styles, although their styles are exclusive. But let us re-mind you that the garment worth while outlasts—the style and these garments, with a label that has a service worth double the price you pay. You might also look at the garments we have for $25.00, $30.00, $40.00, and $50.00, according to your taste and degree of J. Zand.

"Four of the most important re-sults in cooperative marketing, as seen by Theodore Macklin, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, are: (1) the development of acceptable though very rigid systems of product and package standardization, (2) the naming or other accurate identifica-tion of product so that premium or-penalty, such as it may be according to grade, makes its proper impression upon the farmer in his marketing policies, (3) the risk-spreading fea-ture developed by any comprehensive cooperative pooling system, and (4) the elimination of speculative motives and policies in the conduct of mar-keting operations. These four features of cooperative efforts, according to Macklin, are least capable of success-ful development and performance by private competitors.

C. J. Stupfel writes from Salem, Oregon, under date of February 24, 1924: "George and I arrived home safely. Came via Canadian Pacific. Saw very little snow and had a nice trip. We are having fine weather; warm trees are budding and a few strawberries are blooming. We have shipped about 800 pounds of dried Oregon prunes to some of our Mazomanie friends. Our neighbor has about 1800 pounds, and we're trying to help him dispose of them. Should any others care for some they can inquire of Fred Kirch as to quality etc. The price is eight cents per pound here. As it is getting high in the season I would advise them to have them shipped by ex-press as there is a difference of only one and one-half cents per pound be-tween freight and express and about four weeks difference in time. The express is $4.00 per 100 pounds. Hope everyone is well."
