Nursery Stock Needs Care In Setting Out.

Give fruit trees the proper care upon arrival from the nursery and you will be repaid for your labor.

That 75 per cent of the complaints made by buyers of nursery stock are unjust, is the belief of A. G. Moore, horticultural department, Wisconsin College of Agriculture. The real cause is improper handling and planting.

"Remember the trees are a living organism. When you are notified that they have arrived at the express station, call for them immediately. Open the package and if the trees are dried out, plunge the roots in water or bury the trees in the soil.

"When not prepared to plant immediately, dig a trench and lay the trees in it with the tops facing south. Cover the roots with dirt. If necessary, they may be left 'heeled-in' for some time without injury."

SCHOOL NEWS

The selection of the Senior Class Play is about decided and the characters chosen.

Sections of the gymnasium will be reserved and sectioned off for each school delegation.

The local contest has a representative from each class in school. The way it should be each year.

The base ball schedule is nearly complete. Two games are scheduled with Arena, Black Earth, Prairie du Sac, or Middleton.

The work of leveling the school ball diamond has begun. Games will be played as it is this spring.

The opera case us another chance to appreciate our gymnasium with its large seating capacity and its roomy stage.

The League contest will be held in Mazomanie Tuesday night, April 29. The schools to be represented are: Sauk City, Prairie du Sac, Black Earth, Arena, and Mazomanie. There will be a trophy given this year to the winning school. One cup for the girls and one for the boys. This cup must be won twice in succession or any three times.

"Historical Hikes" to discover historic spots, with the aid of an archeologist are a popular feature of the University of Wisconsin summer session.

We write old-time tornado and fire stories every year.—R. L. Sewer

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles Kalsow

Mrs. Charles Kalsow died suddenly at her home in this village at five o'clock Sunday morning, April 13, 1924, from heart failure. Mrs. Kalsow had been ill during the winter, but had apparently fully recovered, and her death was unexpected. She was seventy-four years, two months and six days of age.

Decemard was born in Germany, February 7, 1850, and was married to Mr. Kalsow September 27, 1872. She came to America with her husband and four children in October, 1881, arriving at Mazomanie the twenty-first of that month. They moved to a farm in Roxbury in 1888, and lived there until the fall of 1911, when Mr. and Mrs. Kalsow moved back to Mazomanie.

Mrs. Kalsow is survived by her husband and seven children, four of whom have preceded their mother in death. The surviving children are: Mrs. Charles Schwank, of Mazomanie; Charles Kalsow, of Madison; William Kalsow, of La Porte, Ind.; Mrs. Fred Ewert, of Marquette; Fred Kalsow, of Berry; Mrs. Fred Kirch, and Walter Kalsow, of Roxbury.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, with services at the home at 1:30 and at the German Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. O. C. Biles conducting services in German and English. The funeral was very largely attended by relatives, old neighbors, and friends. Among those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kalsow and two daughters, of Madison; William Kalsow and Mrs. John Stetsand, of La Porte, Ind.; Walter and Miss Minnie Stetsand, of Chicago; Christ Team, of Clinton, Iowa; Fred Uptatel, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Uptatel, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Uptatel, of Milwaukee; Wm. Schumann, of Sauk City; Rev. P. F. Scherbel, of Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Storm and family, of Cross Plains.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors who assisted us with kindly deeds and words of sympathy during our bereavement. In the death of our dear wife and mother, Charles Kalsow and Children.

Shooting Follows Ball Game.

During a practice game of ball Sunday afternoon, a dispute arose between two players, and a knife was drawn by one of them. A little later, as the spectators and players were driving home from the game, at the corner north of Ray Dunlap's house, two shots were fired from a shotgun at the passing cars. One charge passed under the top and back of the front seat of Mike Lacey's car, but no shots struck the car. The other charge ripped the back curtains and the back of the top of Chas. Lacey's car, but the occupants of the back seat saw what was coming, and "ducked," so no one was injured. Mike Lacey went back and took the gun away from the man who did the shooting, placed it in his car and drove up town, where both the attacked cars were soon surrounded by interested listeners to the account of the affair. Neither of the drivers mentioned were moved up in the quarrel at the ball ground, although it is said one of the disputants rode in the Mike Lacey car. Sunday evening the gun, said to be Mr. Lacey's, was sent, and upon receiving it is said to have broken it to pieces. It was a single barrel breach loader, and was loaded when taken from him.

As far as we have learned, no action has been taken. The man charged with the shooting has a wife and two children, and lives just outside the village limits. As the shooting also occurred outside the village, the village authorities have no jurisdiction in the matter.

Too Late Then to Hunt.

No time to hunt for a doctor or drug store when suddenly seized with alarming intestinal cramps, deadly nausea and protesting diarrhoea. Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy gives instant warmth, comfort and ease from pain. Never fails.

"There's Where John Smith Lives—"

Have you ever stopped to think whether the appearance of your home counts for or against you? A home that's well kept up, spick and span, always freshly painted, is a real asset. It never fails to create a favorable impression. A tumble-down, shabby, neglected-looking home tells a different story altogether. If your home doesn't reflect your real character, try brightening it up with

On Party Telephone Lines

COURTESY in the use of the telephone is nowhere more necessary or more appreciated than on a party line. All parties on the line expect and should receive good service and as little interruption as possible.

If you are on a party line and desire to be considerate of the other persons on the line, we would suggest that you eliminate as far as possible lengthy telephone conversations. They are annoying not only to your neighbors, but also to persons desiring to reach them, and sometimes may result in delays of serious consequence.

When you pick up the receiver on a party line and find another person talking, the courteous thing to do is to replace the receiver as quietly as possible and wait a reasonable length of time before trying again to use the line.

The observance of these suggestions by party line users will result in better telephone service and better feeling between those on the same line.

FORD TAKES IMPORTANT CONSERVATION STEP

Millions of Feet of Lumber Saved by New Wood Sawing Method

By methods new to large-scale lumbering and woodworking the Ford Motor Company has installed a new wood saving system which has demonstrated savings of from 35 to 50 per cent in the cutting of fine hardwood for automobile body parts by saving them direct from ungraded blanks as they come from the log. This is an achievement in wood conservation as important as the generation has produced. The system is already on a production basis at the saw mills and woodworking plants of the Ford Motor Company at Iron Mountain and L'Anse, Michigan and River Rouge.

In the past body parts have been made out of kiln dried boards, which were sawn to uniform size and grade. Much of the youngest and best wood was wasted in this process, and in cases where the log was curved or irregularly shaped, the scrap often exceeded the merchantable timber obtained.

The Ford system is absurdly simple. Planks with the bark on are cut from a log in parallel planes varying according to the shape of the log. A single saw bent to "layout" tables, where patterns for various parts are marked out until the plank is completely covered with patterns right up to the bark. Any irregularities, such as the swell at the butt, are taken advantage of in the layout, the scrap being extremely small. Instead of trimming off a large piece to avoid a knot or check, the layout men simply go around it. This method permits the utilization of nearly all the wood, the scrap being extremely small. The various parts are then cut out with a high speed band saw.

Under conventional methods the proportion of board feet in body parts by actual measurement to the wood content of the entire tree is distressingly low. One-third of the tree (the limbs and top) is wasted before the log gets to the mill. Only 55 to 60 per cent of the log is actually converted into body parts.

A sample tree was cut up into body parts under the new method and the result compared with the amount of parts which the old method of edging and sawing would have given. The results were so startling that the system was put into effect at the various Ford Plants as soon as possible.

The tree gave two irregularly shaped logs which yielded 238 board feet. There were also a number of branches and the top. The best use that could be found for these under conventional lumbering would be to send them thru the wood distillation plant. Instead, they were sawed up and marked for parts sawing.

After the logs had been sawed by the Ford method and the patterns laid out, the planks were measured up according to the boards which could be obtained under the edging and trimming method and the number of available parts in each computed. All parts were reduced to board feet in actual lumber content. The edging and trimming method gave 121 board feet of body parts. Under the Ford system the same plank yielded 234, a gain of 77 board feet or 62 per cent. The limbs and top, hitherto considered worthless except for distillation or fuel, gave 170 board feet additional, making a total of 298 board feet of parts as against the 121 board feet obtainable under the old method.

From new on all hardwood limbs and tops not under 4 inches in diameter will be brought to the Ford mills. Another saving possible under the new system is in the logging operations. Much timber has been sacrificed in an effort to get straight logs of standard length. These have been cut off at a height of from two to three feet in order to avoid the swell at the butt. They now may be sawn six inches from the ground. It is no longer necessary to avoid the crook of a tree. The shape of the planks is of no consequence.

The body parts produced under this new method are superior to those made from edged and trimmed boards as the grain may be followed more advantageously. This is especially true of curved parts, a large number of which are found in body construction. Much of the youngest and best wood in the tree was wasted under the edging method, but is now completely salvaged. Not only are more parts obtainable from a tree, but better quality.

This practice of cutting the parts to rough shape while the wood is still green has also simplified the whole process of kiln drying, reducing the shrinkage to a noticeable degree and shortening the time required by approximately ten days. The old time lumbermen and wood workers who freely predicted that the new system would break down at the kilns were rather chagrined to find that the parts came thru with less warping and end checking than the boards from which parts were formerly sawed.

It has been estimated that this new system will make the Ford forests last one-third longer, possibly indefinitely if proper methods of reforestation are followed. A young and vigorous growth of timber is constantly coming up and these trees will not have to reach full maturity before they become available for body parts manufacture.

In the interests of forest conservation the Ford Motor Company makes public the new method, and it is hoped that other companies will take advantage of the economies offered. It would be a conservation measure of national importance if saw mill operators instead of saving boards would save complete parts or dimensional stock. Automobile body companies, furniture factories and other wood working industries could have their parts made right at the mill, thus making an enormous saving in lumber. In addition to which they would profit by lower freight rates. The general scheme of the system is universal in its application.

To the Ford Motor Company it has been found unusually profitable because the company controls every step in the manufacture of body parts from the standing timber to the assembly line. Here are four industries usually separate and distinct: (1) Logging; (2) Saw Mills; (3) Dry Kilns, and (4) Body Shop to which may be added (5) the Wood Distillation Plant at Iron Mountain, Mich. They are all united under one management with but one end in view. As the company's timber requirements have already reached one million board feet a day the possible savings under this new system may be estimated at several hundred thousand feet daily. But more still, it appears to have insured a permanent supply of wooden body parts at a time when the disappearing hardwood forests were a matter of public concern.
