STATE'S FIRST CAPITOL STANDS AT OLD BELMONT

By C. L. Harrington, Superintendent Wisconsin Forest and Parks

WHEN the first Wisconsin legislature convened, no small part of the day's session was given to the selection of a location for the future capital of the state. The meeting was held at Belmont, a village in the southwestern corner of the state, in Lafayette county, which, naturally, had hopes of becoming the permanent capital of the state.

The site of the first legislative meeting is today marked by a state park, known as Old Belmont. Consisting of two acres, it is situated between the Platt and Belmont monuments, landmarks which are visible for 25 miles in every direction.

Wisconsin territory was created by Act of Congress April 20, 1836. The temporary site of the territorial government was established at Belmont, a village built for the occasion with the possible hope that it might become the capital city of the future state, a hope which was soon shattered.

In anticipation of the coming of the first territorial legislature a frame building had been erected by James Ableson, from whom it was subsequently rented for the use of the legislature. This building was a two-story structure with a battlement front 25x40 feet in dimensions. The timber for the building was purchased in Pittsburgh and brought down the Ohio river, up the Mississippi by steamboat, and landed at Galena from whence it was hauled twenty miles to Belmont. The interior was fitted with oak and plaster, making a very substantial frame building for the time.

The territorial legislature met in this building in a forty-six day session between October 25 and December 9, 1836. A long struggle took place in both the council and the house of representatives to fix the location of the future capital city. After considerable discussion Madison was finally selected largely through the efforts of Judge James H. Frey, late governor, who had made a survey of the present site of the city of Madison in anticipation of its being made the capital city.

After the capital was taken from Belmont the village lost its importance, and the territorial capital building finally in the latter sixties was moved about one hundred yards north, where it was used as a warehouse until purchased by the state in 1919. The work of restoration of the building was carried on and completed by the Belmont Capitol Commission, and in 1924 the area was finally turned over to the Conservation Commission to be administered as a state park.

Although Old Belmont Park does not offer facilities for bathing and camping, it holds a great attraction for many because of its historical significance. It may be reached over the regular trunk line highway system to and from Belmont.

Some 15,000 Wisconsin boys and girls were enrolled last year in 4-H club work.

ITEMS FROM LONG AGO FROM THE FILES OF THE SICKLE

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, August 10, 1917.—Robert P. Vogel and Miss Lollita Caldwell were married at Waukegan, Ill., July 30. Mrs. Geo. Whitman, 65, died August 6.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balthaz, August 1.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Friday, August 9, 1907.—The depot was inaugurated Wednesday night. Wm. Neuvengen has gone to South Dakota to remain through harvesting and threshing.

A horse kicked Joe Roberts, Friday, and broke his left thumb.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Friday, August 12, 1877.—R. B. Bentley has moved his house across the river to Cassell.

The sale of the Moniton House has been decided off.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Saturday, August 13, 1887.—Ed. Wolfertman has returned home from Iowa, after an absence of three years. Lightning demolished the dynamo to the mill Thursday, and the village is in darkness.

Chas. A. Wilkin, of Fairplay, Colo., and Miss Sadie Chambers, of Madison, both well-known here, were married Wednesday.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Saturday, August 11, 1837.—The foundation walls for D. W. Bronson & Son's new block are nearly completed.

BUFFALO BILL'S PAL BORN SOMEWHERE IN WISCONSIN

SOME Wisconsin town is entitled to considerable fame as the birthplace of William Comstock, pony express rider and Indian scout, who was a comrade of Buffalo Bill during his romantic precocious days. Comstock is known to have been born in Wisconsin and to have left early to go west and become a daring scout.

The State Historical society, according to Charles E. Burton and Alfred O. Barton, Madison, is anxious to learn where he was born, who his relatives were, and from what part of Wisconsin he went west.

Comstock, like William Cody, was employed by the pony express about 1860, to rush mail and messages from the railway's end to the Pacific coast. He joined the army later, and became quite friendly with the Cheyenne Indians.

In 1868, while he was an interpreter at Fort Wallace in western Kansas, he was sent with one companion to the camp of a certain Indian called Turkey Leg. The two scouts were received in friendly manner, but were shot in the back when they were leaving.

DECLARE WAR ON LAZY HENS, ADVISES EXPERT

"The open season on old hens is here."

This is the announcement made by J. G. Halpin, poultryman at the University of Wisconsin, in telling of the need for close culling to make the flock pay.

With feed prices high and egg prices low, a steady egg production is required to pay for feed and under such conditions there is no room for the lazy hen. This, according to the specialist, is true in spite of the low prices now being paid for eggs because if they are idle until next winter or early spring they will not be able to pay for the feed they will eat in that time.

The good layer can be distinguished from the poor layer by the appearance, conformation and habits, Halpin explains. He advises culling on an experienced poultryman or the country agricultural agent for a demonstration on culling. The few simple rules can be learned quickly when one has a chance to see them right and hears them explained at the same time.

A few of the undesirable types of hens, the kind that should be culled, are the coarse, underbred, inactive, sickly, crippled, early molters, and persistent setters. Others that are shown by close examination to lack the conformation of the laying hen should also be sent to the discard. Getting rid of the loafers gives the layers more room, helping keep the flock healthier.

It is best for those who are not experienced at culling to go through the flock two or three times at two-week intervals, says the university poultryman. By taking out the poorest hens each time a much better job can be done and there is then practically no chance of making a mistake. Surplus cockerels that are still in the flock should also be sent to market along with the cull hens.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mrs. D. D. Davis, aged nearly eighty years, died at Springfield, Saturday, and was buried Monday. Mrs. Jas. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, of this place, Miss Grace Greene, of Oshkosh, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Greene and family, of Madison, attended the funeral. Deceased was a sister of the late J. B. Greene.

According to Madison papers, a search for Mrs. Charles P. Bennett, of Black Earth, was started by Sheriff Fred Tins, Wednesday, at request of the woman's husband, who conducts an oil station at Black Earth. Mrs. Bennett disappeared from her home and the village last Thursday, leaving her two sons and her husband.

Col. O. G. Munson, of Madison, chief clerk of the senate, spent the week-end at the G. A. Shields home. Other visitors the past week at the Shields home were Mrs. Frank Muenchow and children, of Cambria, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. R. Millard, of Beloit, and Mrs. Jake Roth and daughter, Josephine, of Hillsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moe, of Wheaton, Ill.

The Wille family held a very enjoyable gathering at Vilas Park, Madison, Sunday. Those present were: Herman Wille and family and Henry Wille and family, of Berry, Christ, Wright and family, of Black Earth, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olson and son, William, and granddaughter, Virginia Purkis, Lewis Johnson and family, Otto Festge and family, of Cross Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight, Mr. and Mrs. John Booth, and Mrs. Fred Booth started for Prentice, Saturday morning. When but a few miles up on the Sauk road they were forced off the road by an approaching car, but fortunately no one was injured, although Mr. Knight's car was considerably damaged. Before starting back to this place for repairs they missed a satchel containing clothes, etc., belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Knight, but no trace of this was discovered on the return journey. They continued their trip to Prentice later in the day, returning home Monday. Tuesday they received a letter from a man in Fulton, Ill. stating that he had their satchel.

The Dane County Fair Association will open their gates for their 50th anniversary on August 22nd. The attractions are something out of the usual line and the horse racing is grand circuit stuff. One of the many big features will be Robinson's $3,000.00 Review, which will appear every night with beautiful girls in elaborate costumes, specially designed. Elaborate ballets, tuneful choruses and bright ensembles will be the production. Both male and female will play the principal roles, singers, dancers, novelties and what not. The male quartet with this review cannot be seen anywhere else outside of Grand Opera, and will be worth the price of admission alone.

Heavy silt loam soils in central Wisconsin cover an area equal to the combined area of Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Farmers who have silos of less than 100 tons capacity can generally hire an engine and cutter cheaper than they can be owned and operated.

More information will be spread on the problems encountered on the red clay soils of the Lake Superior region at Farmers Field Day at the Ashland Branch Experiment Station, July 26.

From the last killing frost in the spring to the first in the fall, the season in Wisconsin ranges from 170 days in the southeastern part of the state to 72 in the section near to the Michigan border.

Two of the oldest patriarchs of Wisconsin's press are the Grant County Herald, established in 1843 and the Mineral Point Tribune in 1847. These are the only two weekly newspapers organized prior to 1850.

MILWAUKEE ROAD LEADS IN ELECTRIFIED TRACKS

The United States has 1,621 miles of electrically operated railways, or about 28 per cent of the total of 5,851 miles in the world, according to a report of the American Railway Association.

The statistics do not include interurban lines or street railways. The Milwaukee road has the largest electrification in the United States, 600 miles which is four times that of the next highest line, and about one-ninth of all the rail electrified mileage in the world.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad has the second highest mileage with 158 miles.

Fair Speed Boss Thor- oughbred Horseman

SIDNEY F. GUTTENSTEIN
A Thoroughbred Horseman!

State Fair Park, Wis.—This term fittingly pictures Sidney F. Guttenstein, Milwaukee, new superintendent of speed of the Wisconsin State Fair. For thirty-six years, or since 1891, Mr. Guttenstein has been an owner of first class race horses and an ardent follower of the "Sport of Kings." And for a number of years prior to his entry into the harness racing field, Mr. Guttenstein was a dealer in horses in which business he still is engaged.

Frequently Mr. Guttenstein's stables have harbored between fifteen and twenty pacers and trotters and in 1924, Fayette National, with a mark of 2:03.4, was the top money winner among state trotters in the Grand Circuit.

"I look for a record gathering of horses at the State Fair mile oval Aug. 29 to Sept. 3," said Mr. Guttenstein, and he added, in speaking of the future of "Old Dobbin" in general:

"There are certain jobs that a horse can do better than the automobile, so that I am convinced it will always have its place in industry. The motor vehicle can never shove him out of the picture entirely. I estimate that there are still 5,000 horses right in Milwaukee."

OUR CONTRIBUTION $1,500,000,000

THE old-fashioned notion that railroads take everything from the public and give nothing has not been applied to The Milwaukee Road, because those of you in the regions we serve know that we experience your ups and downs as one of you. We are an integral part of this great Northwest, and most all that we make goes back into the country we serve.

Over sixty thousand people maintain this road and keep it in operation. Figure to yourself how many more than that number depend upon the payroll, because our people are family-loving people—people who own their own homes and automobiles—builders of communities!

In the last ten years these people have been paid by us the enormous sum of $840,000,000! We can't begin to figure what this meant to the communities along our way, but it is certain that it has helped materially in their development. This money has by no means been a free contribution on our part; it is the earned wages of earnest hard-working people whom we are proud to claim as our own. They make it possible for the railroad to operate; the railroad helps them build up the regions it serves.

If you add to the $840,000,000 spent on the payroll, the vast expenditures for material and equipment bought within this region, thus supporting local industries, and the huge sums spent for state taxes, which means for good roads, schools, etc., then the total contribution made by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad to the Northwest in the last ten years has been $1,500,000,000!

It's time to think of Fall Clothes.

The youthful beauty of spring and summer is being slowly replaced by the mature charm of autumn, and at times we feel the tang of frost in the air.

Don't imagine you can buy quality clothes cheaper or as cheap elsewhere, for that's only a dream. We know it's pleasant to have nice dreams. We've had a few ourselves. We used to dream that some day we'd own a line of steam boats or a railroad, but we see now that we'll have to get along with a Ford. So don't dream that we can be undersold. It simply can't be done. Our prices are the lowest always.

Would you like to be a Judge? If you buy one of our famous Middishade suits, we are authorized to appoint you the Judge. If the suit doesn't live up to the law, you don't have to get a lawyer to carry your claim to Supreme Court. You'll be the Judge and your decision will be final.

Your pick of muslin underwear for the small sum of 38c. It's a little passe, but a woman who is handy with scissors and needle can get a whole lot of good out of it.

Keep in mind our smooth, light-running New Home Sewing Machine. Peddlers will allow you $10 or $25 for your old machine that they'll junk and ask you $25 or $30 more for the new machine to make up the loss. $45 is our special price for the coming week. But we can't take your old machine at this low price.

MAZOMANIE, WIS. AUG. 12, 1927.

At The Majestic Theater.

Wednesday—"The Heart of Maryland," a Warner Bros. production starring Dolores Costello and directed by Lloyd Bacon. Comes to the Majestic Theatre next Wednesday. Many of the celebrated characters of the Civil War appear and the story has as its storm centre, Maryland Calver, a girl of the Southern aristocracy, who finds herself torn between passionate love for her native State, and for a young man who decided to espouse the cause of the North.

Saturday—"Johnny Get Your Hair Cut." The story is that of an orphaned youth whose dream of life is in an overhauling ambition to become a successful jockey. How he beats his way in a horse car from one race track to another in his persistent endeavor to become an apprentice jockey is reminiscent of some of his very first films. His meeting with Mother Sings, who kept a jockey's boarding house in Tanforth and whose duties were not unlike those of the old lady who lived in a hole, is deftly told by the director, "Pop" Slocum, the aged trainer whose only claim to fortune after years spent on race tracks, is a broken down horse named "Daybreak" meets Jackie. Ultimately, and his salvation.

In this excellent film Jackie has his

A barber-like shave—not amateurish—that comes to all who use a Valet AutoStrop Razor. It is the only razor that strops its own blades without any unscrewing or taking to pieces—keeping blades as sharp as new for many shaves—the simplest razor to use—the most economical in blades—by far the most efficient.
