"BARNUM STILL RIGHT"

To the Editor:

There is and has been a good deal said about the farmer and getting his just share for his labor and investment and many are proposing bills to relieve him. There are several reasons for those bills. They are "flowering schemes" for "punch and powder" office at high salary for creating more bonds for millionaires to invest their income in without tax and to make more taxes on the farmer and those others who have to pay taxes. They have nothing to say about the profiteering that is and has been going on for the last 12 years, while the farmers had to sell their products to the profiteering class.

A bushel of wheat will make about 50 pounds of flour and bakers have told me that it takes 17 pounds of water to mix it. That would make about 67 pound loaves of bread selling for ten cents a loaf. $6.70. The price of wheat the last year or two has been $1.25 a bushel. It so that millers have gotten rich grinding for about 15 cents a bushel, which would leave $5.25 a bushel besides the bran and Graham, a great deal of which sells, manufactured, for more than the bread. There is the freight, costing but little in carload lots. The products of the farm are now manufactured by machinery, which does not cost much more than an ordinary farmer has invested.

It seems to me that there is a great deal of profiteering going on which there is nothing said about. This McNary bill, if passed will turn out about like the farmers going into the packing business did a few years ago. It will work into the hands of the grain companies and make laughing the stock of the farmers. The waterway bills are about the same. They used to pass them 60 years ago and they spent a little money trying to improve them, which was of more damage than good. I have been along around the heads of many of those streams and they generally run through a sandy or light soil which easily washes, the channel changes nearly every year.

It looks foolish to me for people to talk about shipping produce on small steamboats, reloading them on large ships and railroads to distribute them. It looks as if it were easy to foot the bill. "What Barnum said 60 years ago is as true today as it was then. It is strange that people will not think for themselves and protect against frauds and imposition. Fifty years ago the newspapers would print everything that happened and allow the people to discuss things that was going on. Now they seem to be afraid of something and everything has to go through the "Press Bureau." This seems to be a set of fellows who do not want the truth known.

Anything that will not stand discussion or investigation is corrupt. I do not intend to tell anything except what I think or know to be true, and if anyone will convince me I am wrong I will acknowledge it.

Goodyear Tires

We used to sell another line of TIRES. And we believe they were good ones. But we were asked many times, "Do you think that Tire is as good as the Goodyear?"

So we figured if our customers made Goodyear their standard of value—why try to sell them any other kind.

And for that reason we are now selling Goodyears exclusively.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Charles Bohm died at St. Mary's hospital at Madison, at about ten o'clock Thursday morning, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident shortly after seven o'clock Tuesday morning. He and his son, Marvin, were driving in a converted Ford roadster, going to the B. J. Stupfel farm. Just beyond the Halfway Prairie Creamery they met Marvin Neendorf, also driving a Ford. In turning out, the front wheels of the Bohm car swerved sharply to the right, the car crashed into the front and side of the Neendorf car, and overturned. Mr. Bohm and his son were thrown clear of the wreck. They were hurried home in G. M. Stewart's car, and the doctor summoned immediately. Marvin was seriously injured and bruised, but his father was severely injured, examination disclosing a fracture at the base of the skull and two broken ribs. He was unconscious from the time of the accident until he died. He was taken to the hospital Tuesday forenoon and was operated upon at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday forenoon by Dr. Dean. The children, and also Rev. S. C. Fooks, were summoned to his bedside Thursday morning. Mrs. Bohm having remained at the hospital. The body was brought to his home here Thursday afternoon. Marvin Neendorf was taken to the doctor's office by the Sank bus. His injuries were slight. Both cars were badly damaged.

Miss Clara Ring, aged nearly seventeen years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ring, residing on the Sank road north of town has been missing from home since Sunday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock. She left the following note: "Going on a trip. See you sooner or later. Goodbye. Pray for me. I have reasons." She left home while her father was at Madison, and the remainder of the family, excepting a little sister, were attending church at Sank City. She gave her little sister, Rosie Marie, six years old, a nickel to stay at home, telling her she was not going far. She had invited her fiancé, Chas. Hennings, an electrician, of Sank City, to her home, with friends of her two brothers, for Sunday dinner. The girl was about five feet four inches tall, with brown bobbed hair and brown eyes. When she left the house, her sister said, she wore a rose colored felt hat, an orange-crepe dress and white sweater. In a small bag, as near as can be ascertained, she took a purple dress, a golden tan dress, some night clothes and various trinkets, also her purse, leaving her engagement ring in a box at home. The family and Mr. Hennings declared that they know of no reason for the girl wishing to leave home, and she had not confided in anyone her intention of so doing. A search revealed footprints on the railway track, leading toward Mazo-

Rupture Shield Expert Here

E. J. Meinhardt, of Chicago, the wellknown expert will personally be at the Park Hotel, Madison, Wis., on Thursday, Sept. 13th, from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. and on Friday, Sept. 14th, from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. only. Mr. Meinhardt says: "The Meinhardt Vacuum Shield" will not only retain the Rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case—usually giving instant relief without any strain regardless of the size or location of the Rupture.

CAUTION—Do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old-style trusses with understraps. The trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death.

"The Meinhardt Vacuum Shield" has no understraps. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as special arrangements will be announced later for women and children.

NOTE: Please do not write asking to be fitted by mail as this is impossible. I send out no literature as every case must be seen personally; therefore, I visit this section every year giving demonstration without charge, or will be pleased to fit you if desired. All cases that I have fitted here during the past five years will please call for inspection. Please note the above dates and hours carefully and always insist on seeing me personally.—(This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. MEINHARDT, HOME OFFICE, 171 N. CRAWFORD AVE., CHICAGO.

BE SURE! WARNING: Beware of impostors who imitate my notices and claim to represent me. I have no representatives and send out no literature.

manly, but these were lost at the end of the first private road crossing the railway to the main highway near 10. If these footprints were made by Miss being, the supposition is that she secured a ride in one of the numerous passing cars. Nothing has been heard of her since, though several clues have been followed up.

Lower Left: Aisle in main building showing central conveyor which brings cores from core room in distance. On either side are mold conveyors on which core and flask are assembled. These lines move toward foreground of picture, where pouring occurs.

Upper Right: Pouring engine castings. Note that workmen merely guide operations, ladles being suspended from electric hoists running on monorails above. Two big ladles, on electric overhead trucks which brought them from cupolas, may be seen in background. The pouring workmen are on a moving platform which keeps pace with the conveyor carrying the flasks. Note the conveyor entering steel head which shields the room from the castings' blazing heat and gas after pouring.

Upper Left: The maze of cooling conveyor which "kills time" cool before they are handled. It doubles back and forth, huge castings hanging from it every few feet. With the portion inside the buildings, it is 1½ miles long.

Lower Right: Core making with modern pneumatic equipment. Core sand is delivered to the benches automatically by conveyor, and finished cores are carried to core ovens and thence to core assembly by conveyor racks at left.

Center inset: The six big cupolas are charged mechanically, as shown here. The hoist at right hauls loaded bucket up from loading platform below, pushes it into the cupola, and dumps it.

At The Majestic Theater.

Tonight—one of the amusing inconsistencies of the movies is that in trying to get authenticity in special scenes often leads to just the opposite effect. An example of this was shown when Frank Cera, Robert Kane director, told Charles Maguire, his assistant director, and casting director, to hire as "typical musicians" a scene in "For the Love of Mike," occurred tonight to the Majestic Theatre with a top-notch cast including Ben Lyon, Ford Sterling, Hugh Cameron, and Randolph Gurnea.

Saturday—Measuring laughs with a yardstick was Harry Langton's occupation during the cutting and editing of "Long Pants," his new First National laugh special, on view at the Majestic Theatre Saturday. A little cable ran from Harry's seat in the operator's booth. At the end of the cable was a meter. This measured the footage as the reels were thrown up on the screen. With Harry tugging the cable every time the preview audience laughed. One hundred laughs per reel, doesn't include all the giggles, chuckles and snickers which come in between—or the moments of deep pathos.

Sunday—Milton Sills is going to have the first airport in a film star's front yard. After finishing "Hard-boiled Haggerty," his latest stellar film attraction, which will commence production for First National Pictures, Sills laid plans for a hangar and landing field at his country place, near Beverly Hills, Cal. The picture which is coming Sunday at the Majestic Theatre, presents Sills in the characterization of a World War flying ace. Charles Brabin directed the picture, which Carey Wilson adapted from a magazine story by Elliott White Springs. Molly O'Day plays opposite the star, and Arthur Stone, Mitchell Lewis, George Pawcett and Yola d'Avril have important supporting roles.

Tuesday—Word has just come from Hollywood that Johnny Hines, whose latest First National Picture, "All Aboard," is showing at the Majestic Theatre, is busily at work attempting to perfect an invention which mechanically arranges a motion picture screen so that every movie will commence just as you enter the theatre and each picture shows will not be at its climax when you come in.

BETTER FARMING STABILIZES LAND VALUES SURVEY SHOWS

BETTER farming is stabilizing the rural land values of the United States, and within the next few years, the prices will begin to improve, according to a comprehensive survey of the trend of land values just completed by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute of Chicago. The statistics show that in some sections, there has been virtually no decline in farm land values since 1922, while for the country as a whole, the downward movement which started in 1921, has been less pronounced since 1924 than in the three preceding years. This indicates that a period of stability is at hand. The tendency of land prices to stabilize is credited to three major factors:

1—Prices of farm products and net farm incomes have followed an upward trend since the low point of the depression period of 1921.
2—Foreclosures and other forced liquidations have in a number of areas probably exerted most of their influence. Their depressing effect may be expected to decrease progressively as these forced sales are absorbed by the land market.

3—Reductions in mortgage rates of interest already have been announced in a number of areas. An easing of the situation elsewhere appears to be under way, with improvement in country banking conditions and an apparently increasing general supply of funds seeking investment.

The price of farm land is determined primarily by the profits in farming and the promotion of good farming methods has had a strong, steadying effect on farm land values. Good tillage, well-dredged soils, the planting of crops to feed the farm family and growing of a diversity of crops, especially legumes, so as to furnish justly all the protein requirements of cattle, hogs, horses, sheep and poultry on the farm, are the factors that are influencing the earning capacity of the farms. Whenever this type of good farming has been practiced, the drop in land values has not been nearly as severe as in sections where "chance profit" types of farming are practiced.

Farm profits will be increased by the pressure of a growing population upon the land supply. Statistics indicate that the United States will have a population of 150,000,000 people by 1950 to 1965, compared with the present 118,000,000. To feed these, it will require 400,000,000 acres in crops. This is about 38,000,000 acres more than the area in crops in 1919 and calls for an average of more than a million acres a year from the less productive or less tillable lands and now in cultivation.

Conditions are gradually shaping themselves to produce stability in land prices, and indicate that in the next 10 to 15 years, some rise in values may be expected. Reform in the tax laws to draw more of the revenue from income taxes and collect a smaller proportion from the general property tax is desirable. Owners of farm land bear an undue share of the general tax, since a large part of intangible property, such as stocks and bonds, escapes taxation. There is a tendency to change tax laws so as to tax property on its producing value. This would lighten the burden on farmers at times when prices are low and prevent high taxes from forcing down the price of farm land, the institute declares.

"How I Solved My Shaving Problem"

"I had always used a safety razor. I'd insert a new blade—a good enough first shave, then each shave worse.

"The blade got duller and duller until in a fret I'd throw it away and insert a new one. A constant annoyance, an expense.

"I thought I'd go through life shaving this way. Ever dissatisfied. I was in a habit rut.

"Then fortune favored me. I fell heir to a new shaving delight.

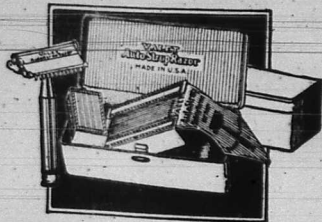

"I get a 'first-shave' every day now—with a new-like, super-keen blade.

"For I own a Valet AutoStrop Razor. I sharpen the blade, I shave, I clean the razor, all without removing the blade."
