Wisconsin is awake to the new danger of the European corn borer, county agent L. J. Merriam of Walworth county, reporting that he has already had a number of calls to investigate worms suspected by farmers of being corn borers.

Yellow corn contains a vitamin which is lacking in white corn and is therefore superior to white corn in grain rations that are fed in the dry lot.

WISCONSIN FARMERS WAR AGAINST WEEDS

Weeds, in Wisconsin alone, are taking an annual crop toll that makes the ravages of some of the other plant pests seem small. The staggering sum of $40,000,000 a year in the estimate of A. L. Stone, weed specialist of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, who is directing a campaign against the ravages of weeds on Wisconsin farms. Stone declares that when the competition for the soil which weeds give valuable crops, the damage of grain and seeds because of the presence of weeds, and other miscellaneous losses due to weeds, are all taken into consideration in arriving at a figure of the damage wrought by weeds, this enormous cost to Wisconsin agriculture is not excessively estimated.

Total eradication of all weeds is impossible, says Stone. They have gained too great a hold through long neglect. Constant control, to prevent further spreading, and wherever possible the reduction of their vigorous hold on the land, is all that he hopes to accomplish.

The Wisconsin weed law, now in effect, was passed in 1861, and according to popular opinion expressed in a recent meeting of the Dane county weed commissioners, with 75 in attendance, it was agreed that our ancient statutes fail to cover or cope with this large and ever growing farm problem. Stone points out that the present state weed law, which was passed in 1861, when the state was so young and so undeveloped, that the weed situation then and now would be about as sensibly comparable as the traffic needs of that era and this, is now quite inadequate in several important details. It is his belief that the law should be amended to encourage the enforcement of needed weed control measures, such as are now impossible under the statutes of 1861.

NOTICE FROM THE TOWN WEED COMMISSIONER.

To the residents of the Township of Mazomanie: You are hereby notified that the Weed Commissioner of Dane County is not satisfied with the way the weeds are spreading in this township and he insists on a more thorough survey by the weed commissioner, and it is now time to look over those weed patches and stop them from spreading. He also insists on a personal call on every farm, so in the course of a few days I will talk to you in person, so please get busy as you can meet me with a smile, as you all know your weed commissioner is held responsible if he does not perform his duty. So I must fulfill my obligation or quit. Canada, thistles, burdock, and cockle-bare are a curse to all of you, so destroy them as quick as possible.

Wm. Wilkinson,
Weed Commissioner of Weeds.

Frequent cultivation, to keep down weed growth and to keep the surface soil mellow, increases corn yields considerably.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John Booth celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in this village July 3. There were eighty-four guests present, relatives and a few close friends. A bounteous dinner and supper were served, and the day was spent in visiting and renewing old times. Mr. and Mrs. Booth were the recipients of many valuable presents in commemoration of the event. Mr. and Mrs. Booth were married in Arena at the home of the bride's father, Robert Leach. They were attended by Misses Emma Goodlad of Black Earth and Jennie Leach as bridesmaids, Harry Goodlad of Black Earth and Thos. Morrow as groomsmen. Of this quartet the groomsmen have passed away. ## Badger State News = Briefly Told =

Superior—A state-wide farmer-labor political alliance is hoped for as an outgrowth of an organization perfected in Douglas county to take part in the fall state campaign.

Stevens Point—Pension legislation putting Spanish war veterans on an equal basis with Civil war soldiers is supported in a resolution adopted by the Wisconsin encampment. The minimum amount for disability among Spanish war veterans is $70, while Civil war veterans receive $65 to $90 monthly.

Appleton—Declina Salisbury, for 35 years commercial teacher in Appleton high schools, has resigned. She is credited with being the founder of the first high school commercial department, developing it from a class of six to 903 students. She began her work when former Gov. Francis McGovern was principal in 1898.

Madison—More than a score of farmers of River Falls and Elsworth districts took the state road commission hearing on a petition for lower rural rates and better service. The farmers contended that inefficient reconstruction of phone lines had made service more costly than necessary.

Brandon—The first house built here, erected 75 years ago by David Jones, who took the lumber as pay for his services in a lumber camp and later in the team from Wisconsin, has been torn down and the salvaged used for the construction of a private garage. Other white pine used in the house and sheathing was declared to be in first class condition.

Madison—The state board of control has voted to purchase the 405-acre farm of T. K. Rosen, one mile north of Oregon, and about 10 miles from Madison, and donate it to the state industrial school for girls now in Milwaukee. It was learned here that the purchase price was not more than $100,000. It was said that more than 50 sites for the school were offered.

Ashland—Preparations are under way for the annual strawberry harvest in the Chequamegon Bay region. Berries here ripen just as the growing season closes in more northern sections. Picking will be in full swing the early part of this month and will last for several weeks. Indications are that by year's crop will be the largest of previous record breaking years.

Madison—Farmers are invited to gather here July 15 for a farmers' field day, when they will see the state agricultural experiment station at work. Visitors will see the laboratories and experimental field plots and compare their own with the state's. The day is free and open to all. The various lines of research upon which the state is doing the most interesting average Wisconsin farmer.

Madison—Authority for employment by counties of full time health officers was asked of the legislature. It means next January. The request will be sponsored by the state board of health and the state medical society. Those who seek to carry out the plan define a whole time county health officer as one who does not engage in the practice of medicine or any other business, but who devotes all his time to official duties.

Nellville—Clark county now has more cows on test than any other county in the United States. The method devised by Robert Annandson, Appleton, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and now Outagamie county agent, of testing herds by mail census has proved the best. Clark county is being visited by dairy leaders eager to learn of the plan, while every mail brings inquiries from various sections of the country. Two hundred herds in Outagamie county and 168 herds in Marathon county are being tested under this plan which is expected to spread very rapidly.

Green Lake—Dry weather and use of commercial fertilizers on corn fields on the south side of Green Lake has been a combination which caused some injury to seed, and in a few cases necessitated replanting the entire area. The injury has been confined almost entirely to sandy soils, although stronger applications have been made on heavier soils. Damage resulting from hill application has caused considerable sentiment for broadcasting instead of applying to the hill with a planting attachment. Broadcast methods reduce the possibility of injury to the minimum. The summer time has a foundation for permanent soil improvement.

Madison—The baby chick and all the reasons why it is the subject of a two-day hatchery school to be held at the Wisconsin college of agriculture starting July 17. The school will feature the summer months of the state accredited hatcheries association, which has 180 members.

Waupesa—Ernest Montgomery, a farmer near here, is owner of a six-month-old heifer calf that raises the scales at 500 pounds. It was raised on a skin milk diet.

Green Lake—The state legislature was asked to introduce a department of pharmacy at the University of Wisconsin by the Wisconsin Pharmacists' association in annual convention here. The action followed a discussion on the need of such training.

Beloit—Michael McKearn, Beloit business man, was arraigned in municipal court here on a charge of arson following an investigation of the burning of a barn on his farm 10 miles west of this city. A borrowed buggy was the vehicle used in the fire, which was attributed to McKearn's arson.

Antigo—A party of German sanitary engineers inspected the Bell sawage plant, which is said to be the best of its kind in the United States. Many important developments have been noted for the same purpose during the last year. The German party is headed by Privy Councilor Dr. Max Bendine.

Portage—Tests of water in the government canal here to determine the effect of the pollution which is a class of six to 903 students. She began her work when former Gov. Francis McGovern was principal in 1898.

Ashland—Steel machines in Hurley, Melton and numerous other northern Wisconsin communities are "blasted" and used in the construction of a private garage. Other white pine used in the house and sheathing was declared to be in first class condition.

Sturgeon Bay—The Poor county cherry crop will run to 15,000,000 pounds this year. It is predicted by H. H. Eltinger, manager of the Poor County Fruit Growers' union. While this would be the biggest crop in four years it would not reach the bumper crop of 1924. This season the Montmorency variety is exceptionally good while the Richmonds are light.

Madison—Sixty-six corporations and individuals filed applications with the conservation commission to market 172,975 acres under the forest crop law, a detailed list made public today. The total was swelled the last few days when the Northern Wisconsin Realty Co. applied for 48,520 acres and the Wisconsin Central road applied for 18,000 acres.

The interstate commerce commission ruled the rate, which was 50 cents a ton, to be reduced to 45 cents a ton, a 10 percent reduction, this rate being 25 cents a ton higher than the rate on shipments to Boston and Portland, Me. The reduction sought is estimated at $50,000 a year.

UNCLE SAM REDUCES DEBT 900 MILLIONS Secretary Mellon Puts Surplus at $398,000,000; Tax Cut of Over $220,000,000.

Washington.—Announcing a surplus of $398,000,000, a public debt retrenching of over $800,000,000 and a tax cut of over $220,000,000, Secretary Mellon declared the fiscal year closed. The treasury closed "has witnessed a further improvement in the financial position of the government."

Secretary Mellon said for the year, as contained in the annual treasury statement, were $402,000,000, and the cost of operating the government charitable and such $100,000,000. The figures were $1,120,304,411 and $5,635,284,219.

The surplus was $720,000,000 of the department's earlier estimate. Of the surplus, $367,000,000, or nearly all of it, has been applied to the retirement of the public debt, and the treasury secretary announced the remainder will be used for the reduction of the public debt in the fiscal year 1925.

Explaining an increase of $150,000,000 in expenditures over the previous year, Secretary Mellon said that the failure of the deficiency bill in 1924 and a change in the revenue law, a substantial amount of expenditures properly chargeable to the fiscal year 1925 was carried over into 1924.

The treasury statement disclosed that the second Liberty loan bonds, of which on March 1, 1925, there were outstanding $3,100,000,000, all but $3,000,000 had been retired by the end of the fiscal year. The treasury began operations in anticipation of the maturity of the Liberty loan bonds on September 1, 1924, when $2,147,000,000 of third Liberty loan bonds outstanding on January 1 of this year. This amount was reduced to $1,250,000,000.

Taxation, as usual, furnished the major items on the credit-side of the national ledger. Tax receipts, including income, excise, and gift taxes, and miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, were $2,200,000,000, or $111,000,000 less than last year.

Income tax payments aggregated $1,274,000,000, as compared with $2,274,000,000 in 1924. The treasury had estimated the tax at $2,000,000,000. "In view of the amount of discussion that has taken place as to the accuracy of the treasury's estimate," Secretary Mellon said, "it is worthy of note that with collections aggregating over $2,000,000,000, they exceed estimates by a narrow margin of $400,000,000, or an error of 42.1 per cent."

Income tax collections yielded $200,000,000, described as "normal" receipts, compared with $90,000,000 last year, a record figure. Internal revenue receipts were $2,200,000,000, compared with $915,000,000 in 1924, its decrease being ascribed mainly to a sharp diminution in estate tax receipts and the repeal of the automobile sales tax by the last congress.

The receipts from sources other than income taxes aggregated $2,000,000,000, compared with $815,000,000 last year. The principal item of increase in this class was $240,000,000, resulting from the liquidation of obligations of railroads to the government. The chief decrease in taxation was $51,000,000 in income tax receipts due to an anticipated falling off in tax collections.

At the close of the fiscal year the public debt amounted to $13,400,000,000, as compared with $13,111,000,000 in the last fiscal year, a decrease of $697,000,000. Of this, the treasury estimated $240,000,000 to be retired by the end of the fiscal year. The treasury also estimated that the public debt would be retired by the end of the fiscal year.

By transfer to securities bearing a lower rate of interest, the government's interest rate on the interest-bearing debt was reduced to 3.87 per cent, compared with 5.96 per cent at the close of the last fiscal year. Total bond payments were $752,000,000 as compared with $787,000,000 in the fiscal year 1924.

During the course of the eighteen months ending September 15, 1925, the treasury estimated that over $500,000,000 of second and third Liberty loan bonds would be retired, or refunded into securities bearing a lower rate of interest.

VOLCANO WIPES OUT
LIBOG, CITY IN P. I.
Several Villages Are Destroyed—Thousands Flee From Lava.

Legaspi, Province of Misamis, P. I.—The coast town of Libog, with a population of 7,000, and several villages near the eastern base of the volcano Mayon have been virtually destroyed by lava streaming down the volcano's side, refugees reaching here reported.

In the early morning of June 21, and all the inhabitants of the devastated district, numbering many thousands, were presumed to have left their homes. Threats of cholera aggravated the evils of the situation in the refugee camp, when two suspected cases of illness were found. "The authorities, however, were watching conditions closely and said a widespread epidemic was impossible."

Reference to those days is made by the new refugees. "The lava, pouring lava down the eastern slope toward the ravaged towns. Vegetation was destroyed, even the trees having been killed."

The peak itself, rising 8,274 feet above sea level, fire crowned at night and with ribbons of red hot lava streaming down toward the sea, presents an awe inspiring spectacle. Gases emitted from the interior ignited on mixing with the air in the fumaroles crater and exploded, shooting flames into the sky. The repeated explosions cause a trembling in the atmosphere which can be felt for miles.

The phenomena has inspired the natives with a fear approaching panic. Crowds fill the churches, imploring divine protection and religious processions have been held in the streets here nightly.

The eastern slope of the volcano has so far received the whole force of the lava. The lip of the crater on that side is lower than elsewhere and allows the lava to flow on to the eastern reaches higher levels. The molten streams there can be seen from a distance glowing red and retaining their brightness until they have run half way to the foot of the mountain.

John D. Corkill, army aviator, flew over the crater a few days ago. They took photographs. The lava was about 400 feet high and was filled with a molten flood of lava. The natives still believe that the lava will reach the city of Legaspi.

By transfer to securities bearing a lower rate of interest, the government's interest rate on the interest-bearing debt was reduced to 3.87 per cent, compared with 5.96 per cent at the close of the last fiscal year. Total bond payments were $752,000,000 as compared with $787,000,000 in the fiscal year 1924.

GRAIN EXCHANGE IS SOUND, SAYS CLUTTON

Chicago Board of Trade Official Tells Dealers of Benefits Afforded.

Gary, Ind.—Grain exchanges are more solidly embedded in the economic structure of the nation than ever before in history, Fred H. Clutton, secretary of the Chicago Board of Trade, declared in an address here. The situation, he told, he told the Inter-State Dealers association, to the steadily rising service being performed in behalf of producer and consumer than exists in any other staple foodstuff.

To improve upon the present system, any new scheme must cut down the thin marketing margin between farmer and consumer. Every economist knows how difficult this would be. Hence the grain exchange should not only maintain its vitality in its own right, but also grow with service.

"For more than half a century," he said, "the grain exchange has been a self-seeker that the exchange system was doomed."

"Quite likely when Joseph was born, the grain elevators in the Nile valley there were gentlemen with chopping-block whisks who shook their heads and said the venture was a failure. It was the grain fields of the Aegian plains would soon be Joseph out of business. Always Joseph shall have such men with us."

Mr. Clutton said one misfortune of the exchange was the old shadow of corners which took place forty years ago when railroading was a cutting business, when the steel industry was just beginning and when politics was coming out of the hand of Wall Street.

"The grain corner is a thing of the past, and has been for twenty years. Reference to those days is useful only in misleading farmers."

He sketched the many improvements of the past few years, including the public performance of the elevator committee in preventing evictions, and the complete absence of fraud under the new board of clearing house system.

"Along with the growth of newer methods of business, the exchanges have guaranteed the public a performance of their functions in all good faith," he added.

"Our latest scheme is the new warehousing corporation which will do away with complaints occasioned under the old law. Back of the plan the whole elevator industry is interested. The elevator receipts so they will always be as good as gold."

"DIVULGE"

ON THE effectiveness of gossip we are all agreed. But that the word "divulge" which means merely "to make known," should have close relationship with "vulgar" will come as a surprise to those who learn for the first time how it started! Yet both words hark back to the same derivation.

"Divulge" comes to us from the Latin "divulgare," which consists of the prefix "di" plus "vulgus," the name which the Latins gave to the people or common people. Hence the word means literally to spread among the people, and so to make common or "vulgar."

If your ears burn the next time you are about to divulge some information it will be because of this little column which delves and tells—let the chips fall where they may!

A MESSAGE TO GAMBLERS!

There's a difference between the "sporting chance" and a gamble of the "heads I win, tails you lose" type.

There's a difference, too, between playing the stock market, the races, cards or roulette (where you can limit your losses)—and taking the "short end" of a certain other gamble where your losses are beyond control.

This other gamble is an uninsured automobile. This is one gamble you cannot afford—when dependable, adequate Automobile Insurance costs so little.

'Prohibition, Farm Aid, Honesty in Office, Important Platform Planks.

For President
ALFRED E. SMITH
For Vice President
JOSEPH T. ROBINSON

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.
Convention Hall, Houston.—In the words of Will Rogers the national Democracy met in Houston to nominate a candidate for vice president. Of course, there was the small formality of ratifying the nomination of the Presidential candidate, and the ticket named was

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, nominated for President on the first ballot.

Aside from the naming of a ticket there was much discussion and long hours of argument over the things which they "viewed with alarm." In the end a platform was adopted, and the following is a summary of its more important planks:

The prohibition plank, a compromise between the extreme wet and extreme dry, "viewed with alarm" the law enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment on the part of the Republican tell the audience all that he might have told them. He did not tell them that the magnificent hall in which they were meeting with a seating capacity of better than 25,000 had been built specially for the convention at a cost of about $200,000, but he might have done so. He did not tell them that Houston had spent better than one-half million dollars, including the contribution to the national committee, in preparing for and entertaining the convention, but he might have done so. What he did tell them was that he was glad they had all dropped in, invited them to the kitchen to have a cup of tea and a piece of cake. That little speech was very typical of Houston hospitality.

It was not until the evening session that old time Democratic enthusiasm really showed itself. It came when Claude Bowers, the gifted Kentucky senator, the greatest of Democratic heroes, and Democratic achievements, but more especially when he paid his compliment to the party standard-bearer, the Republicans. It was a brilliant oratorical effort, well worthy of all the thunderous applause it received.

That first evening session and the session on Thursday night that marked the actual choosing of Governor Smith as the party standard-bearer, were the really notable sessions of the convention. Beside them other sessions seemed tame, but at these there was no lack of Democratic ardor and fire, and no, violence of Democratic discord.

On Wednesday forenoon session at which the permanent chairman, Senator Robinson, Arkansas, was selected, a real demonstration was started by the chairman's reference to that clause in the Constitution which provides that religion shall not be a bar to political preference. New York and Missouri, Alabama, Tennessee, either refused to join in the demonstration or did so after much persuasion. Illinois, like New York, waited until other states had led the demonstration.

Party Harmony Prevails.
It was a convention over which there had been much talk as to what the dry South would and would not do, as to what the wet East would and would not do, but when it was all said and done to the few compromises that were necessary to produce party harmony. As to the candidate who best expressed by half a dozen delegates on Tuesday morning. They were from dry Kansas. Two of them were arguing that Governor Smith was not a proper candidate to represent the people of Kansas. The other four agreed that that was true but they were going to vote for him. "Why?" asked one of the opponents. "Because we want to win," replied the four in chorus. And that tells the story of the nomination. Democracy believes Al Smith can pull more votes than any other candidate that could be selected. With Smith as the candidate the delegates could not build a platform which the candidate could not accept, and so the South and the dry West were willing to accept a compromise on the prohibition plank.

Everything was so harmonious that it did not seem like a Democratic convention. If the delegations represented the rank and file of the party it can safely be said that Democracy goes into the fight to defeat the ticket nominated at Kansas City as a united party. It will take a count of the votes next November to tell the rest of the story.

Naming the Candidates.
The speeches placing the names of the several candidates for the Presidential nomination before the convention were listened to with intense interest. Franklin Roosevelt named Governor Smith, as he did four years ago at New York, but the Smith forces did not make an effort to carry the convention by storm as they did at New York. It was not needed, and it would not have been good politics. Others named the favorite sons, and each received a full measure of applause and a demonstration.

While there was never any doubt as to the result of the balloting the Smith forces were specially anxious that all the favorite sons be placed before the convention, and each receive one or more complimentary ballots. The difficulty was in keeping everybody from climbing onto the Smith bandwagon on the first ballot, or at least before a vote had been cast for other candidates. The effort was to prevent any appearance of steam roller tactics.

Texas Hospitality.
Houston and all Texas gave the Democratic Texas a royal welcome, and extended the very maximum of that brand of hospitality for which the South is famous. From the time the delegate-steps off the train to be met by a band of tubas and brass drums until he crossed the state line on his homeward journey, there was not a moment when there was not being lavished upon him the friendly attentions of a friendly people. The same welcome was extended to all, whether it was Senator Pat Harrison, or Governor George, or Correll Hall, and their dry followers from Mississippi, Georgia and Tennessee, or the wet Tammany tigers of New York, or the eternally wet Breckinridges from Illinois.

That was outside the convention hall, and the rest of the resolutions committee. Inside these places the wet forces of the party found the gleamed hand of good fellowship had become a bare knuckled fist of lusty fighter carrying a hard wallop. Outside the convention hall Gov. Dan

Moody and his Texas delegates were the general hosts. Inside the hall they were the shock troops of dry legislation, leading the fight for a dry candidate, if possible, but more especially for a dry platform. They believed in prohibition, and they said so; they believed in enforcing the prohibition law, and they said so; they did not want any modification, and they said so—unapologetically. And a right Ella fight it was before it was all over.

Many Ideas on Platform.
The real fight of the convention came in the resolutions committee. There were submitted to that committee almost as many plans favoring prohibition, favoring the enforcement of the present law, or opposing the present law, as there were delegates. Among these the one submitted by Governor Moody of Texas, calling for a strict enforcement and strong endorsement of the present law, was the most radical on that side. Somewhat milder was the one submitted by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, calling for the strict enforcement of the law, but naming specifically the Eighteenth amendment. Former Secretary Josephus Daniels submitted a somewhat similar plank, though a little different.

That first evening session and the session on Thursday night that marked the actual choosing of Governor Smith as the party standard-bearer, were the really notable sessions of the convention. Beside them other sessions seemed tame, but at these there was no lack of Democratic ardor and fire, and no, violence of Democratic discord.

Failed in Attempt to Reach Pole by Balloon

The first attempt at Arctic exploration by air, made in 1897, ended disastrously. The Swedish balloonist, S. A. Andree, and two companions, set out for the North pole in a large free balloon. The start was made from Dunes Island, in the north of Spitzbergen, on July 11, 1897. Five tons of supplies were carried. In an hour the balloon was out of sight. That night, seven and a half hours later, a message boy, found later, was dropped. This was the last trace of the expedition, although years afterward various unconfirmed rumors of finding the balloon have come out of the Arctic regions of Siberia and Canada.

Hall to Be Memorial

Out of the sand along its seashore, Atlantic City is building the world's largest convention hall. When it is completed the hall will be large enough to hold the entire population of Atlantic City—well over 50,000 persons—and leave room for a three-ring circus and a national bathing beauty contest besides. The huge structure will stand as an unnamed memorial to Mayor Edward L. Rader, who conceived the plan but, whose death last January prevented him from seeing his dream take the form of reality.

administration, and promised a strict enforcement of that and all other laws.

On the subject of farm relief the Republicans were condemned for failure to pass suitable legislation. And the farmers were promised speedy relief by the Democratic party, but without specifying just what form the relief should take. During the demonstration was held at Republican convention in office, and a promise to seek out all evil doers when a Democratic President has been inaugurated.

These were the three important subjects covered by the platform adopted on Thursday night. Other planks covered the usual things found in political platforms, and in much the usual way. The one plank on which there was any serious discussion was that regarding the enforcement of the prohibition laws, and the dry had at the preliminary laws, and the dry had at the preliminary laws, and the dry had at the preliminary laws.

Senator George of Georgia, was the first name placed before the convention, followed by a demonstration led by George, and joined in by Florida, North and South Carolina, Alabama and Nebraska. Governor Smith's name was second, and the banners of more than 40 states and territories joined in the procession that "drowned the dose of Franklin Roosevelt's address."

The feature of the Smith demonstration was the parking of the state banners around the box occupied by Mrs. Smith and her son and daughter. Evans Woodley received a demonstration on the part of the Indiana delegation. Other nominating speeches were postponed until Thursday morning. At that session there were presented the names of Cordell Hall, of Tennessee, Senator James Reed, of Missouri, former Senator Patterson, of Ohio, Congressman William Ayres of Kansas, former Senator Hillebrand, of Nebraska, Hon. Thompson, of Georgia, and Jess E. Jones of Texas. Each of them received demonstrations from their own states, and in staged by their own states, and in staged by their own states, and in staged by their own states.

The most unusual feature of the demonstration was the parade through the great hall of a Texas cowboy band, led by a pretty cowgirl mounted on a gray horse.

When the show opened.

The big show opened Tuesday noon with a brief session that disposed of a number of formalities. Following the invocation by Bishop Hay, of the Methodist church South, and a rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," "America," and "Dixie," Miss Melvina Passmore, of Texas, came a brief speech of welcome by Mayor Holcombe. entirely world. On the other side there came from the New York delegation a plank denouncing the present law and proposing that each state be permitted to make the amount of alcoholic content permissible in each state. From the dry southern states as well as some of the central and mountain states there came dire prophecies of what results might be expected in November should the wet ideas of New York, New Jersey, New England, and some of the other northern states prevail. Governor Moody indicated that the adoption of such a plank would be "an overreach on the loyalty of the South for the Democratic party."

The other plank over which there was much discussion, and many varied opinions was that on farm relief. From some states came a direct demand for an indorsement of legislation similar to that proposed by the McGary-Haugen bill, including the equalization fee. From that they graded all the way down to those that wanted only to promise the farmer a square deal without specifying how it was to be done.

Houston Enjoyed It All.
Houston made the most of her first national political convention. Her people were out to see and to be, as much as possible, a part of the big show. Forty-eight hours before Chairman Shaver called the convention to order there was no mistaking the fact that a convention was coming. Sunday morning the streets were alive with bands shouting a welcome to each incoming delegation, and the buildings were gorgeously decorated with the national colors, in which the Lone Star state flag of Texas was a prominent feature. Every native son and daughter were as greatly excited as any small boy or girl attending their first circus performance. It was a big event in Houston, and the Houstonians wanted the whole world to know that they knew it.

In the arriving delegations there came the Smiths and the O'Connors, the Joneses and the Levinsons, the Petersons and the Baumgartners. It was Democracy.

With the delegations came also the visitors, and many of the latter arrived in automobiles of all makes and many varieties—farmers' cars, farmers, but they were not the militant farmers that had been expected at Kansas City some two weeks before. They were the cotton farmers of Texas and the sugar cane growers of Louisiana—they and their families came to town to give assistance to Democracy the over-seer.

Many Bands and One Tune.
The bands were colorful and a part of the big show. There were fully a dozen of them, each carried in a brilliant and distinctive uniform. The lobby of the Rice hotel was a favorite spot for operation. Around the mezzanine floor of the hotel were grouped the headquarters of the various candidates for the Presidential nomination, and each one had one or more bands numbered among its followers. At times two or three of these would attempt at the same time to entertain the delegates gathered about the hotel. The result can be more easily imagined than described.

"Dixie" was the favorite piece of the band leaders until Monday afternoon following the arrival of the New York delegation. That night the entire town was fed "The Sidewalks of New York" as its inspirational music.

At The Majestic Theater.

Saturday.—When Esther Blakston gives herself to interpreting a part, the audience is assured of a faithful and absorbing interpretation. Bound by her spell as she depicts the life, the mannerisms and emotions of the pleasure mad girl, the heroine of her latest stirring picture for Paramount, "Half a Bride," at the Majestic Theatre Saturday. The picture is a timely discussion of companionate marriage and the irresponsible flights of wealthy American youth. It is filled with interest of characterization and locale, splendidly acted and well thought out. The story deals with a girl who enters into a marriage with the companion of an evening, inspired by a mad impulse. Her father breaks up the ill-advised union by taking her on a long sea voyage aboard his yacht. She escapes in a launch but the young captain of the yacht jumps overboard after her. They are cast ashore on a deserted island by a storm where the girl learns to work and love.

Sunday.—A life time of thrills crowded into one hectic week! Carrying through the air in a breeches boy, a sinking ship at end of the line and her deadliest rival on the other! A fight with a jewel thief on his yacht at sea and escape in a speeding automobile, a clash with a super-sensitive Rajah at a garden party and a love scene on the Statue of Liberty—these are just a few of the things that Bobe Daniels went through during the making of her latest picture, "Hot News," which comes to the Majestic Theatre on Sunday. She plays the part of a nervous, carefree girl, whose quest for news of the most torrid variety leads her into all sorts of dangers and complications. While thrilling to a high degree, the humorous side of the situation is never for a moment forgotten.

Wednesday.—Electrocution of a murderer in a state prison, a bank robbery and a gun battle between police and cornered gunmen and his wife are thrilling episodes in "Clara Bow's new Paramount starring picture, "Ladies of the Mob," at the Majestic theatre Wednesday. It is Clara Bow's first serious, dramatic vehicle since Paramount raised her to stardom a little more than a year ago.

Hitherto she has been identified with flapper roles. In the new picture she is seen as Yvonne, wife of a successful bank robber who eventually abjures forces to go straight. Miss Bow is supported in "Ladies of the Mob" by a cast of players chosen with special care to portray the vivid underworld characters who people the story.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MENTAL SUNSHINE

THE title of this is stolen boldly and boldly from a tobacco advertisement, which is good, that it really pays to read the paid-for publicity, often the most useful as well as the most interesting part of our newspapers and periodicals.

Just what ordinary sunshine is we do not know.

We know that from it we get light and heat and that both are made up from vibrations in the ether and the atmosphere which separates the earth from the ether.

We know that a pane of glass will allow the passage through it of a maximum of the light and a minimum of the heat, and we know that a sheet of black iron will allow the passage of a maximum of the heat and a minimum of the light, but the cause of the vibrations and what makes the difference between the light and heat vibrations are among the many unsolved problems of science.

Mental sunshine offers us no such enigma.

There is nothing through which the light of a smile will not penetrate. There is nothing which will not show the effects of a warm hand-clasp.

There is no sun among all the billions of the heaven's luminaries that will reach into the depths of sorrow but mental sunshine will lighten those dark places and warm the coldness of a soul.

All that we see in this world is made visible by reflected light. The green of the fields, the blue of your sweetheart's eyes, all color and all form are visible to us only by the light which reflected from them and calling upon our retinas is telegraphed by our optic nerves to the opposite side of our brains. The reason we cannot see objects in the dark is because they reflect no light.

The man who cannot and does not reflect mental sunshine is living in the dark, a lonesome and pitiable creature.

We cannot cultivate sunshine in the heavens, but we can encourage it in ourselves. We strive and deify ourselves for money. We make little or no effort to increase our mental sunshine. Yet money without happiness is an empty and useless thing, while happiness without money is a wealth we can spend until associates' point out.

What do you say to spending five minutes a day letting our mental sun radiate its light and warmth on whoever and whatever is within its radius? If we begin with the five minutes it will shortly shine all through the 24 hours.

CHICAGO-TWIN CITY BUS LINE COMES THROUGH!

The new Greyhound has line operating between Chicago and the Twin Cities, passing through Mazomanie. Operation of the line began July 2nd. Northbound buses will reach here 1:30 p. m. and southbound buses are due to arrive at 5:00 p. m. on their way to Chicago. Additional schedules are to be added as traffic warrants. The fare between Chicago and the Twin Cities will be $10.00 one way and $18.00 round trip. Fares from intermediate points will be in proportion. It is stated, the line will pass through Fort Atkinson, Madison, LaCrosse, Wisconsin, and Winona, Minnesota.

Under the permits granted by the states through which the line passes, passengers are carried interstate. In other words, the public cannot ride a bus from one point in Wisconsin to another point in Wisconsin. They can, however, ride from any point in Wisconsin to points in other states. The same is similarly true of Illinois. In Minnesota, however, passengers can ride from point to point within the state as well as into adjoining states.

The Chicago-Minneapolis line is a part of the Greyhound system which operates daily schedules of buses from the Atlantic seaboard to Los Angeles and the West.

Far-Sighted Man

"Wrap a fruit cake in oiled paper if it is to be kept a few months and cover it with sugar if it is to be kept a year," says the Woman's Home Companion. "And what do you do," asks the man, "if you are going to put it in the corner stone of the new county courthouse?"

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rex Aton of Prairie du Sac at the St. Mary's hospital in Madison Saturday morning June 23.

MOTORISTS ARGUE FOR ADDITIONAL SAFETY MEASURES ON HIGHWAYS

Convince Officials of Perils on Many Crowded Roads—Prevention of Dust an Important Matter to Be Considered.

The White Painted Guard Rails Help to Make Curves Safe for the Motorist.

High winds and passing cars raise dust clouds that have been compared with the smoke screens of naval destroyers. Through that screen the average motorist must guess his way and trust to luck that no one is directly in his path, the automobilists assert.

In some sections of the country, where motorists have been able to convince officials of the perils in dust-covered highways, the authorities are applying chemicals to the road surface, particularly calcium chloride, a moisture-absorbing material that keeps the dust down. The prevention of dust is unquestionably a large factor in any safety-first campaign.
